BLAMES EVANS FOR RIOTS AT CARNEGIE, PA.

Former Kleagle Makes Charges Against Imperial Wizard in Federal Court

RECALL DEATH OF ONE

Woman Testifies Feminine Members of Body Given Riot Sticks

Pittsburgh, April 11—Hiram Wesley Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan was directly responsible for the riots at Carnegie, Pa., in 1925, in which one Klansman was killed, N. C. Hogue, of Swissvale former kleagle of the order, charged in Federal Court here today.

Despite the fact that Carnegie officials had refused the Klansmen a permit to parade, Sam Rich, Klan leader, gave the order to march, Hogue said, saying that "Evans had ordered it."

Hogue said he had conferred with Rich, Pennsylvania grand dragon, two or three times a week prior to the riot and had been told to "be prepared for trouble." Conferences with klan officials were held in Pittsburgh, and the men were ordered to be ready for any emergency.

Says Salesmen Whipped

Swearing abruptly from the Carnegie riot, counsel for the five ousted Klansmen being sued for $500,000 by the Klan called L. E. Landman, an Oklahoman, to the stand. Landman told of seeing two hat salesmen whipped by klansmen near Tulsa for alleged advances to girls. He said the men were compelled to whip each other and were all beaten by Klansmen.

Women also were armed by the Klan to participate in riots, Mrs. Walter E. Bittner of Homestead, Pa., testified. She said that at a demonstration at Wilkinsburg in which 1,000 Klanswomen participated, each was issued a riot stick. Several thousand Klansmen in the parade were armed with revolvers, she said.

REFUSES TO PERMIT REMUS TO GO FREE

Hopes of Wife-Slayer Dashed When His Appeal Is Rejected

Columbus, April 11—Hopes of George Remus, Cincinnati wife-slayer, of obtaining his release on bail from the Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, were dashed today when the Ohio Supreme Court rejected his appeal, asking that a bond be fixed pending final disposition of the case.

Remus has already been released by the Allen County Appellate Court. The state, however, filed an appeal from this decision which is now being considered by the Supreme Court. Attorneys for Remus asked that he be permitted bail pending the outcome, but the Supreme Court today rejected this plea.

The Supreme Court also refused to annul the recent action of Chief Justice C. T. Marshall who issued an indefinite stay of execution preventing the Allen County Appellate Court, which declared Remus sane, from liberating him before the state's appeal has been heard by the Supreme Court.

HOWELL LEADS

Republican Senator Near Victory in Nebraska

Omaha, Neb., April 11—With about half of the state's 1,900 precincts reported, Senator R. B. Howell Republican candidate to succeed himself for the nomination, was well in the lead of G. S. Spellman, who had the backing of the standpat Republican faction and the Klan.

Senator Howell's apparent victory also was being considered a victory for Senator Norris, his colleague, who stumped the state for him. Four out of seven of the Norris delegates to the national convention at Kansas City also were elected.

In the Democratic ranks former Senator Gilbert Hitchcock had no opposition in the preferential vote and was given the state's 16 delegates to the national convention.

Fertilizer Association Secretary Makes Charges on Bills

Washington, April 11—Wholesale vote-trading on bills pertaining to flood relief, Boulder Dam, farm relief and Muscle Shoals, is prevalent in both houses of Congress, Charles J. Brand, executive secretary of the National Fertilizer Association, charged today. Attacking the favorable report of the House Military Affairs Committee on the Muscle Shoals bill which would provide for government-operated fertilizer plants, Brand said: "Few citizens realize the extent to which the government is being plunged into private business by this four-cornered political trading."

BOULEVARD CONTRACT LETTING POSTPONED

County Board To Act Monday on Bids on Harding Memorial Project

Awarding of the contract for the Harding Memorial paving has been delayed until next Monday night following the opening of bids in the office of the Board of County Commissioners yesterday afternoon.

At 7:30 o'clock next Monday night there will be a meeting of county commissioners with city officials and interested property owners in the offices of the commissioners in the courthouse.

As yet city and county officials have not decided upon the type of material to be used in the paving. In the bids opened yesterday were bids on four different kinds of material. They were lake asphalt, oil asphalt, concrete, and macite. The latter however, was disregarded.

Two Types Considered

The choice according to the Board of County Commissioners lies between asphalt and concrete. Bids submitted on the two types of material run from $16,000 and $11,000 lower on the concrete.

The bids submitted follow:

Lake Asphalt—P. Drake & Son $41,500.65; Churchill & Eucke, $40,917.79; G. K. Kohbarger, $38,620.42, The Federal Paving Co. $39,810.75.

FIND BODY

Mystery of Ellyson's Disappearance Partially Solved at Norfolk

Washington, April 11—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Commander T. G. Ellyson and two companions in a naval seaplane while en route from Norfolk to Annapolis a month ago was partially cleared up today when the body of Commander Ellyson was washed ashore at Willoughby Spit, near Norfolk.

Ellyson and his companions left Norfolk before daylight for the comparatively short trip to Annapolis where the commander's young daughter was in the hospital.

The fact that the flier's body was washed ashore from the ocean indicated to naval experts that in the darkness and early morning fog the flyers became confused and got off their course.

POLICE PROBE THEFT OF MAIL AT CITY HALL

Checks Issued by Auditor Reported Stolen from Box

TOTAL NOT KNOWN

Robbery Operations in Progress Most of Last Month, Is Belief

A letter protesting the non-payment of an account received by the City Health Department, several days ago, started an investigation that has revealed a series of mail robberies at the City Hall, the extent of which is yet unknown. Letters containing checks in payment of accounts issued from the office of City Auditor Landes, were taken from a small mailbox in the hall just outside the auditor's office.

Thus far, two of the checks have been returned with the endorsement forged. City Treasurer Russell Snare said today. There are however, 10 or 12 checks believed to have been stolen, which have not yet come through the bank.

A check for $52 mailed to a Cleveland firm last month has been returned to the city unendorsed, and police are looking for the stranger who attempted to cash the check in a local store last week.

Presents Check

Early last week a stranger appeared in a S. Main st. store and after making a small purchase, offered the check for $52 in payment. Suspecting something was wrong the saleswoman asked the stranger to wait, she took the check to the Marion County bank where she was told by City Treasurer Snare to have the owner of the check step into the bank. The man had disappeared, however, leaving the check behind.

The two checks which have been returned with forged endorsements, and which are now in the hands of the police, were both in payment of accounts of the health department. One of the checks, for $6 and made payable to a Columbus concern, was cashed by a young man in a Bellefontaine ar

BRITISH HAPPY

Give Much Space to "Downfall of Big Bill"

LONDON, April 11—Because of the well-known anti-British activities of Mayor William Hale (Big Bill) Thompson of Chicago, the London newspapers have devoted much space to the Chicago election as they do to elections in the British Isles.

Some of the headlines over the Chicago story were, "Downfall of Big Bill," "Eclipse of Big Bill" and "School Book Burning Day at King George Falls."

Some papers commented upon the statement of Henry Ford that Mayor Thompson's anti-British utterances were not taken seriously in America.

BANKERS SHOW SINCLAIR BONDS IN FALL'S NAME

Silence When Blackmer, Oil Man, Is Called at Teapot Dome Trial

Washington, April 11—The name of Harry M. Blackmer, former American oil man, was called futilely three times today at the criminal conspiracy trial of Harry F. Sinclair.

Blackmer is one of the three missing witnesses in the Teapot Dome case. At present, he is in France with a subpena in his pocket.

The government would like to question him, James E. O'Neil also in Europe, and Henry Smith Osler, last heard of in Africa, about a peculiar oil deal which resulted in profits for them and Sinclair which later turned into Liberty Bonds. Certain of these bonds, to the amount of $230,000, found way into the hands of former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall and it is the government's contention they were a bribe to induce him to lease the Teapot Dome Naval Reserve to Sinclair.

Calls Western Bankers

Fall, named as a party to the alleged conspiracy, is too ill to stand trial.

Roberts then called half a dozen western bankers who produced Fall's account in 1922. These witnesses were on the stand only briefly and their testimony was merely for the purpose of further verifying the fact that Fall had the Sinclair Liberty Bonds in his possession. There was no cross examination.

For the most part today's session was to be consumed with the reading of innumerable records and letters from the government files, and of depositions taken from men now dead. Roberts hopes to convince the jury that Fall took matters into his own hands in negotiating the lease with Sinclair veiled everything in the greatest secrecy and literally handed the vastly valuable oil field to the oil magnate "on a silver platter."

GRAND THEATER MANAGER GETS SPEEDY TRIAL

FOUR FOR PROSECUTION

Defense Witnesses Permitted To Testify, but Testimony Not Admitted to Record

BULLETIN

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon the jury in the Sharpless case was still deliberating and there were no reports to indicate when a verdict might be expected. The throng of citizens which filled the entire seating capacity of the courtroom as well as much of the standing room during the trial was still on hand waiting for the jury's report. The crowd was the largest attending a court trial here in recent years.

The case of Edward F. Sharpless, local theatre manager indicted for operating Sunday motion picture shows, went to the jury in Common Pleas Court at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon. The court was adjourned at 12 o'clock following the plea of Grant E. Mouser, counsel for Sharpless, to the jury.

Court was resumed at 1 o'clock with the idea of the prosecuting attorney Frank Widenmann.

Attorney Mouser in his plea based his argument on the statement that the prosecution of Sharpless, charged with operating a motion picture show on Sunday shows unjust discrimination and does not allow the defendant his constitutional rights.

The testimony of twenty-five witnesses called by the defense was not admitted as evidence. The defense witnesses were in most part owners and operators of business places which are open for business within the city on Sunday.

The court ruling barring admission of defense testimony was given after the legal technicalities of the case had been argued with the jury withdrawn.

Four State Witnesses

Four witnesses were placed on the stand by the prosecuting attorney. They were Ira Strock, captain of police, J. W. Thompson, chief of police, Lucille Carr, an employe of the Wiesle-mann beauty parlor, and Robert O'Connell, an employe of the Isaly Dairy. The state sought to prove only that the Grand Theater had been operated on Sunday and that Sharpless was the manager.

Sharpless was indicted by a special grand jury about two weeks ago. Four indictments were returned. The maximum penalty for conviction is six months' imprisonment or $100 fine or both.

No Objections Filed

The jury was impaneled shortly after court opened at 9 o'clock. Neither the defense or the prosecution offered objections to jurors and the panel was speedily filled. Four are women and eight men.

The jurors were:

Clarence Finch, 317 S. Vine-st; Jared Hulling, 301 Edgewood-ave; Mrs. Ollive D. Bauer, 693 E. Church-st; Mrs. Mary E. Gillan, 401 S. Grand-av; C. E. Stouffer, Morral; W. G. XENIA MAN LIKELY TO LOSE COURT FIGHT

Attorney Halted by Justices During Argument on Liquor Conviction

Washington, April 11—The contention of attorneys for the state of Ohio that there is no analogy between the Tumey case, which resulted in Ohio's system of justice courts being declared unconstitutional a year ago, and that of M. J. Dugan, appealing from a liquor conviction in mayor's court at Xenia, Ohio, will be upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court, according to indications today.

The case is the first of its kind to be heard by the Supreme Court since the Tumey decision. Dugan was convicted in 1926 and has carried his appeal to the Supreme Court, his counsel arguing that the mayor of Xenia was not qualified to preside over a criminal hearing because he had advanced to his office from that of commissioner and that Ohio law required the election of judicial officers.

It also was charged that the mayor was financially interested in the extent of the fine.

Attorneys for the state, in answer, contended that the mayor received no fees and the mere fact that the city would profit from the fine was no evidence of his financial interest.

A final decision is to be handed down by the Supreme Court Monday. The case was argued late yesterday and the court halted Dugan's lawyer in the midst of his argument, indicating that he had failed to make a case and that the appeal will be dismissed.

"Yes, Mayor Tohmpson, but are you going to resign?" he was asked.

"Yes, and about that resignation, Mr. Mayor?" chorused a group of reporters.

"We will still fight for Chicago. That's all good men," insisted Big Bill.

Bird-McGinniss Post, No. 162, of the American Legion, will purchase an additional plot of ground in the Marion City Cemetery as a result of action taken at a meeting of the post last night. The present plot, which is the resting place of 15 ex-service men, is completely filled. The ground to be purchased will be 85 by 20 feet. It will lie immediately in the rear of the present arc which has been reserved for the Legion by the Cemetery Association.

Extension of the Legion membership campaign, which has been in progress for several weeks, until June 1 was favored by the Post as Ohio posts are attempting to beat California in the number of members enrolled.

Appointment of a sick committee was made last night, consisting of Walter E. Hane, chairman, Chris Turoff, and J. W. Llewellyn.

A committee consisting of Charles Howard, D. J. MacDonald and Captain Shanks was appointed to make arrangements with Franklin Post of Columbus to come to Marion for the purpose of conferring the initiatory work in the full form.

Awards were presented to 12 members last night in the form of lapel buttons and auto radiator emblems for distinguished service rendered in the recent "war" on non-members.

Lloyd Meredith was appointed as athletic officer to have charge of the Junior baseball contests. All local organizations that care to sponsor a boys' team in this contest will be given the rules laid down by the Americanism-committee. The Elks Lodge has already voted to sponsor a team, and as soon as the matter can be taken up with other organizations it is expected that they will act in a like manner. This includes fraternal, church, civic and luncheon club organizations.

At the close of last night's meeting an entertainment was given, the first part of which was furnished by the Marion Paint Co., being given by two local comedians giving a representation of the "Two Black Crows".

The second part was presented by the Van Atta Hardware Co. in the form of a radio program as being broadcast from the Legion Dugout of Bird McGinniss Post. A lunch was served by the two losing arms in the recent membership war.

GERMAN DESERTER TELLS OF LEGION'S HARD LIFE

Aberdeen—"The brutal treatment, bad food and unbearable conditions were more than I could bear," Fritz Stinz, a 21-year-old German declared upon his arrival here after his escape from the French Foreign Legion.

Stinz, who was sent back to his native land, said that he made his escape from Suisse, North Africa, where he had been stationed, by obtaining a suit of civilian clothes. While waiting for a vessel on the African coast, he was recognized, and an Arab attempted to capture him, Stinz said, but he struck the man unconscious and made a second getaway.

Macken gave a reading, "Mrs. Perkin's Supper," and Misses Bernita LeMasters and Evelyn Bachelder were heard in a vocal duet accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Roy Reddick.

The benefit bazaar planned by Marion Council, Knights of Columbus, to raise funds for helping defray expenses of the state K. of C. convention to be held here in May, opened at Schwinger hall on N. Prospect st. last night with a large attendance.

THOUSAND PEOPLE LIVE IN UNDERGROUND CITY

Budapest—More than a thousand people are still living in the underground city of Budatelent, not far from here, in caverns built beneath a cemetery.

The caves were resorted to as far back as the year 1838 during a bad flood in the region. Since the stone is soft, it was easy to carve rooms as well as little homes which are said to be warm in winter and cool in summer.

The people of this little community, known as the "higher regions," living underground, are said to be unusually healthy. The infant mortality rate is rather low and the unusual longevity is the rule among the adults. The principal industry is the cultivation of mushrooms in the underground city.

BRITISH GIRL IS DEAD FROM UNUSUAL DISEASE

London—Phyllis [illegible], 18-year-old shop girl, has died in her home here from a disease which, to the knowledge of physicians hitherto has affected only cattle.

The disease is known as actinomycosis. The germ is believed to have entered the girl's system through a cut on her finger. It is believed to have been transmitted by hay or grass infected by diseased cattle.

WHAT A Rexall ONE CENT SALE IS

It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another item of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration: The standard price of Klenzo Dental Creme is 50c, you buy a tube at this price and by paying 1 cent more, or 51 cents, you get two tubes. Every article in this sale is a high class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as is sold every day at the regular price.

This sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full size package of high standard merchandise for 1 cent. It costs money to get new customers, but the sacrifice in profit is justified, knowing the goods will please you.

ACCOUNTS SQUARED BY CITY AND COUNTY

Long Controversy Over Jail and Hospital Bills Ends as Payments Are Made

A ... payment of $2,078 to the ... Council at its meeting ... squared the city's account ... the keep of city prisoners ... jail and with the ... the city by the county ... Tuesday of $1,244.03, the county squares its account for medical attention received by James Nagle, who was shot in the leg by Sheriff Frank Washburn, at Owens several years ago and who spent nearly a year at the City Hospital.

With the settling of the two accounts, a controversy that has existed between the city and county for more than a year was amiably brought to a close.

The statement submitted by the county for the care of the city prisoners at the jail provides for the payment of $1,057.50 at the rate of 75 cents a day for each prisoner from September 26, 1926 to June 30, 1927, for the payment of $1,398.50 at the rate of 25 cents a meal from July 1, 1927 to Jan. 31, 1928 and $222 from Feb. 1, 1928 to March 31, at the rate of 15 cents a meal.

The present contract, which was recently signed by both the city and county officials, definitely fixes the rate at 25 cents a meal.

PLAN EARLY ACTION ON BUS FRANCHISE

Council To Ask Definite Statement from C., D. & M. Before Making Grant

Before taking further steps toward granting a franchise for establishing bus lines in the city, and in an effort to secure a definite understanding as to the intentions of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. regarding the renewing of its street car franchise, City Council at its meeting Monday night instructed the city clerk to secure a written statement from the company relative to its plans.

Reasonably confident, however, that the company has no intention of asking for a renewal of its franchise, which expires in October, Council authorized the city solicitor to prepare a franchise for bus lines, to be presented to Council at its meeting in two weeks.

Three proposals for establishing bus lines here have been submitted to the city. The applicants are the Maag Brothers Transit Co. of this city, City Rapid Transit Co. of Newark and the Yellow Truck & Coach Co. of Chicago, the latter through Frank Baldwin, proprietor of the local Yellow Taxi Cab Co.

It is the belief of Council that a franchise should be granted as early as possible in order to grant whatever company is awarded the franchise ample time to secure its equipment before the expiration of the street car franchise.

WELL "GROWS" IN GARDEN

Crooksville, April 11— Dr. Alger Cooper won't garden in his backyard this year. A 500-barrel oil well was drilled in on his lot.

Deaths and Births Reach High Marks Here in March

A record for the last six months in both births and deaths in the city was established during the month of March, according to the report for the month submitted by Miss Mary Ellen Karr, registrar of vital statistics, today. The report lists 92 births and 43 deaths for the month, these figures exceeding the preceding month by 16 births and 10 deaths. As in February, girls led boys in the number of births by two, 52 girls and 50 boys having arrived during the month.

Three accidental deaths contributed to the month's total death toll of 43. Two of these were children, Jack Coy, eight, who was electrocuted on March 23 and Howard McCombs, 4, who was drowned in a cistern at his home. The third accidental death was that of Francis Crawford, who died from a fractured skull received in an automobile accident on March 20.

Age Claims Six

For the first time in the last year, old age led in the cause of deaths, six having succumbed from this cause during the month. Arteric sclerosis and organic heart disease, each having claimed four during the month, were second in causes of death. There were also four stillborn cases during the month.

With but three deaths from pneumonia, March, known among physicians as "pneumonia" month because of the changing weather, witnessed fewer deaths from this cause than has been the case for a number of years. There were also three deaths from cerebral hemorrhage. There were two deaths each from cerebral apoplexy and peritonitis and one each from premature birth, inanition, cancer, senility, large abscess, acute Bright's disease, acute dilation of stomach, paralysis, influenza, appendicitis, embolism of the heart and convulsions.

REALTORS HEAR TALK BY STATE SECRETARY

Ray Hufford Discusses Organization Work at Luncheon Here

A brief sketch of the history of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards, an outline of the structure of the board and some of the things it is attempting to accomplish were presented to members of the Marion Real Estate Board by Ray Hofford at a luncheon in the Hotel Harding grill yesterday. Hofford is secretary of the Ohio Association.

After a brief sketch showing the growth of the association from a small beginning to 5,000 members since its organization 18 years ago, Hofford outlined the committees through which the association carries on its activities.

One of the important committees of the association is the legislative committee, headed by J. W. Jacoby, of Marion, according to Hofford.

Important Service

This committee, the speaker said, scrutinizes every bill relating to realtors presented to the state legislature and has given valuable assistance to law making bodies in connection with city planning and the regulation of subdivisions.

Another committee that does valuable work, the speaker said, is the education committee. One of its plans is to send speakers to the high school assemblies to acquaint graduating students with the work of the real estate dealer.

In closing the speaker told of the plans made for the Ohio delegation's trip to the national convention which will be held in Louisville, June 19 to 22. The Ohio Association has chartered the river steamer Spirit of Cincinnati and will make the trip by boat, leaving Cincinnati at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of June 18.

According to Mr. Hofford Galion realtors have organized a realty board with a 100 per cent membership. Every member has also joined the state association.

350 Consecutive Appearances

Young actress discovers how to be on the job every day

SHE USED to lose one night at least every month from her work. Valuable time that lost money for the show.

But for over a year now she's been on the job every single day, for 350 consecutive appearances in the record-breaking run of a Broadway hit. What made the difference? Such a simple hygiene habit that it's surprising more women haven't found it out.

She takes a spoonful of Nujol regularly for a few days beforehand, each month. Nujol regulates the intestinal functions of the body at times when they're apt to be upset. Helps to keep normal, even under abnormal conditions. Cleanses the whole system.

Why don't you try Nujol, as this woman did? Take it for the next three months. You'll be amazed at the difference it makes.

Nujol can't possibly hurt you. For it contains absolutely no drugs or medicine.

Broadway Favorite

It was perfected by the Nujol Laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey). Be sure you get the genuine.

Death List in Toledo Crash Jumps to Five

Toledo, April 11—The death toll in a crash between an automobile and an interurban car just outside the city limits here last Sunday night stood at five today, Erma Roth, 15, having succumbed to injuries last night.

Two of Erma's sisters, Gladys, 19, and Hazel, 17, had died previously, as well as Joseph Boudire, 19, and Earl Unger, 20. All were in the automobile. Two other passengers in the car, Roy Henry Roth, 3, and Stanley Cutcher, 19, are still in the hospital. The infant has a broken leg, and is expected to recover. Cutcher suffered a fractured skull and his condition is still critical.

rejected former senator-elect, by an estimated majority of 260,000.

Governor Small and Mayor William Hale Thompson have conceded defeat of their ticket.

Swanson Beats Crowe

In the bitter Cook County contest between State's Attorney Crowe and Judge John A. Swanson for the nomination of state's attorney, the Deneen tidal wave carried Swanson to victory by an estimated majority of 200,000.

Emmerson carried to victory his running mates for lieutenant governor and secretary of state, Fred E. Sterling, incumbent, won the former berth and William J. Stratton, the latter.

Oscar E. Carlstrom, attorney general, who sought renomination for the office under the Deneen banner, was successful over State Senator John Dailey of the "America First" combine.

Ruth H. McCormick and Henry R. Rathbone won the nominations for congressmen-at-large.

THOMPSON LOSES IN HIS OWN WARD

Chicago, April 11—The completeness of the Deneen victory over the Small-Thompson-Crowe combine in yesterday's frenzied primary, was emphasized today in a check of returns from Mayor William Hale Thompson's home ward.

In this ward—the Forty-Sixth—Mayor Thompson ran for committeeman. He was overwhelmingly defeated by State Senator Herman Haenisch, the Deneen candidate.

Haenisch's official majority is expected to exceed 2,000 votes.

PROBE COLLAPSE

Investigation of Cathedral Accident Is Ordered

Washington, April 11—Investigation of the collapse of a wooden platform, at Washington Cathedral, Monday, when 10 high school girls, on a sightseeing trip from Waterville and Whitehouse, Ohio, were injured, has been ordered today by Col. John W. Oehmann, District of Columbia building inspector.

Oehmann said his department had never had any notice of the construction of the platform and he was unaware whether it had been built for workmen or sightseers. Seven of the girls still are at Emergency Hospital, suffering from fractured legs and other injuries. Officials of Washington Cathedral have assumed responsibility for their care and treatment.

BROKEN PADDLE SHAFT IS CAUSE OF STEAMER DELAY

New York, April 11—The sound steamer Plymouth of the Fall River Line was crippled off the Battery today when the main shaft of her port paddle wheel cracked.

Distress whistles called five tugboats and a fireboat to her assistance. The rescue craft made their lines fast and towed the helpless steamer to her berth at Pier 14, North River, where she docked an hour and a half late.

Capt. Robert M. Robinson said the 200 passengers, coming from Fall River and Boston, did not know there was anything wrong beyond a delay.

Washington, April 11—A nation-wide plea for the establishment of narcotic farms for federal prisoners will be presented to the House Judiciary Committee on April 28, Representative Porter, Republican of Pennsylvania, author of the measure, said today.

The pleas are contained in nearly 1,000 letters which have been received by Porter. They come from federal judges, prison officials, civic workers and former "dope" addicts.

TUMULTY'S SON NAMED TO POST AT HARVARD

Cambridge, Mass.—Joseph P. Tumulty, Jr., has been appointed secretary of the Harvard Legal Aid Bureau.

Tumulty is the son of the former secretary to President Wilson. The Tumultys now live in Washington, D. C., though formerly their home was in New Jersey, the state in which Woodrow Wilson was governor before his election to the presidency.

SPANISH FAMILY NOW ANNOUNCES 25TH CHILD

Madrid—The newspapers of Sanlucar de Barrameda in the province of Cadiz, announce the birth of the twenty-fifth child to a resident only 42 years old.

The mother has had triplets once and twins four times. All but three of the children are living and doing well.

LLOYD GEORGE URGED TO TOUR SCOTLAND

London—The suggestion is afoot that Lloyd George should undertake the conquest of Scotland for the Liberal Party this summer. The idea is that he should not so much carry the fiery torch as that he should charter a steam yacht and make a spectacular tour around the coast.

Undoubtedly such a pilgrimage would set the whole of North Britain on fire. When Gladstone made his historic tour of Scotland, his rival Disraeli termed it a "pilgrimage of passion." Liberals believe that such a pilgrimage of passion is now needed in Scotland to bring it back to its old-time Liberalism and that Lloyd George is the one man to undertake it.

OIL POLLUTION RUINS FISHING ALONG COAST

Portsmouth, Eng.—Charging that "oil pollution" and the constant maneuvres of trawlers near the shore are ruining the fishing along the southern coast of England, sea anglers of this district are up in arms and are contemplating stringent measures to insure a preservation of the sport.

All along the coast, the anglers are complaining that these two factors are ruining the fishing and spoiling the coast as a holiday attraction for visitors.

The anglers are urging that the responsible authorities should take immediate action to prevent trawlers from operating inshore at night, and that the whole question of oil pollution should be investigated.

Ten Known Dead, 34 Injured in Paris Train Crash

Paris, April 11—Many persons were killed and injured when an empty special train, returning from the Enghien race course collided with a Chantilly local just outside the Gare Du Nord this afternoon.

It was reported that 50 persons were killed but later the railway company issued a statement saying only 10 were known to be dead. Thirty-four were injured.

BRIGADE OF ACES FOR PARIS POLICE SERVICE

Paris—New York has its "Finest" Paris soon will have its "Brigade of Aces." Prefect of Police Chiappe answered a press campaign provoked by failure of police to make arrests in a series of slayings by announcing his intention to create a "Brigade of Aces", a super-service whose members will draw the highest pay and receive bonuses for arrests in extraordinary cases.

MOVIES IN SUBWAYS TO ENTERTAIN PASSENGERS

Paris—Subway movies will soon be opened by one of the underground railway companies of Paris. Trains operate on a five-minute schedule. Between trains passengers waiting on the platforms will be entertained by films advertising various products.

Police recently forbid electric signs on buildings except over the establishments they advertised, so displaymen are carrying their publicity campaigns into the subways.

Moscow—Six public school instructors who announced to their classes that they wouldn't march in a "red" parade "without being paid for it" were fired without notice by the Moscow Control Commission of the Communist party. They escaped jail only by apologizing and retracting their remarks.

Pupils of the school, headed by a group of young Communists proposed that all the classes and instructors march in a body. The six instructors refused to participate.

VOTE SOON, HOPE

Political Row Threatens To Stir Debate on Farm Bill

Washington, April 11—Although a political row threatened to stir up a lively debate in the Senate, farm bloc leaders were hopeful today of securing a final vote on the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill within 48 hours.

The political row was projected by Senator Brookhart, Republican of Iowa, who charged George N. Peek, close friend of Vice President Dawes, was "insincere" in supporting the bill. Peek has been credited generally with initiating the equalization fee feature which caused President Coolidge to veto the bill a year ago. Brookhart said Peek was Dawes' campaign manager for the 1928 nomination and didn't "want a bill which the president wouldn't sign."

FLOOD BILL BACKERS FIGHT NEW PROPOSAL

Continued Attacks by President Coolidge Fails To Shake Determination

Washington, April 11—President Coolidge's continued attacks on the Jones Reed flood control bill apparently have failed to shake the determination of backers of the measure to place all the cost on the federal government.

The announcement of Representative Madden, Republican of Illinois that he would propose amendments requiring the states to provide flood-ways met with instant opposition from the "government pay-all" advocates.

Madden was called from a sick bed by President Coolidge to organize a fight against the bill. He also proposed to amend the bill to give the president veto authority over the project.

The cost of flood-ways has been variously estimated from $91,000,000 by the Mississippi River Flood Commission to $429,000,000 by army engineers, the latter including cost of relocating railroad property.

The flood control battle in the House has been tentatively set for next week by the House Rules Committee.

Prices On Cars To Decrease, When Senate Repeals Tax

Washington, April 11—The prices of all American made automobiles will be reduced as soon as Congress repeals the federal automobile tax, Roy D. Chapin president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, told the Senate Finance Committee today.

All automobile manufacturers, said Chapin, have taken a unanimous pledge to take the tax off the price of their cars to the consumer as soon as the tax is repealed. In this way, Chapin declared, the buying public will benefit at once from repeal of the tax.

counsel wrangled continually, Judge Thomson admonishing Connaughton against promiscuous objections.

The Klavaliers, described as a military organization in the Klan, were next brought under defense counsel's fire. Samuel G. Graham, of Hazelwood, Pa., said that the organization was for the purpose of "bringing in men for trial." He said these victims were brought before a Klan tribunal, and if this body found them guilty as charged, they were punished by the Klavaliers.

Swinging back to the Carnegie riots, the defense placed S. L. Clark of Hazelwood, exalted cyclops of that Klan on the stand. Clark said the women in his district were very active in klan work, and burned several crosses to frighten Italians in the neighborhood.

The Knight Riders, a branch of the Ku Klux Klan had thousands of rounds of rifle and pistol ammunition stored in caves and barns "for bombings and shootings," J. R. Ramsey, of Dayton, former klan investigator, testified.

Ramsey, who yesterday said the Knight Riders bombed an Ohio church was questioned concerning the Klan's political activities in Ohio. Van A. Barrickman, defense counsel, sought to show that the Klan was instrumental in shaping political policy in that state, but was blocked by klan counsel. Ramsey said, however, that the Klan was active in obtaining political jobs.

Ramsey said his work as Klan investigator was "to gather information on officials of the state and federal government."

"This was to be used in controlling them in case we needed something against them," he said.

PROTEST FILM

"Dawn" Threatens To Become Question for Diplomatic Exchanges

Washington, April 11—The rising tide of protest against American exhibition of the British film, "Dawn," depicting the execution of the famous British war nurse, Edith Cavell, by the German military governor of Brussels in 1915, has grown to such proportions that the question threatened today to become one for formal diplomatic exchanges between Germany and the United States.

Edith Cavell was executed by a German firing squad as a British spy. News of her dramatic death lashed neutral sentiment to a fury in many countries and soon became the symbol of anti-German feeling the world over.

The film was forbidden in England after private showings to the National Board of Censors six weeks ago. The American rights were then purchased by Arch Selwyn, who has announced he will exhibit the picture soon in New York.

SPANISH ACE IS PLANNING WORLD TRIP IN NEW PLANE

Madrid, April 11—Commander Ramon Franco, Spanish ace, who flew from Europe to South America in 1926, is planning a round-the-world flight. He hopes to hop off in June, although his new hydroplane is not yet ready.

Franco expects to be accompanied by three companions—Captains Ruiz De Alda and Gallahza of the Spanish Royal Air Force, and Pablo Rada, a civilian mechanic.

For the past year German engineers have been at work at Cadiz on Franco's new plane.

There's a plan afoot to vote a rough-stuff medal of honor to Clarence Chamberlain. Why not? He holds the distance record without counting that 18,000-foot dive which his fainted passenger took him.

"If you are doing work that seems to you important," says Bruce Barton, "waste no time in winning verbal victories or answering petty criticisms." Bruce talks like one who has had an argument with the back seat.

According to George Bernard Shaw, a gentleman is one who has made the world better by living in it. We hard-working spreaders of joy and sunshine in paragraphs are coming in for recognition at last!

"Today, with five per cent. of the people of the world," asserts Charles M. Schwab, "the United States is doing half the world's business." We realize that we are hustlers, Charley, but that proportion certainly looks mighty high.

Commenting on the fact that the human race would cease if we didn't eat and multiply, Lynn Doyle expresses the opinion that "now that women are giving up arithmetic, they might at least take to cooking," which is our idea of a thing mighty subtly put.

A New York theatrical producer was penalized for attempting to smuggle three pints of Staten Island Scotch whisky into England. Any man who attempts to tote bootleg whisky into Great Britain should be punished to the limit of the law; not so much for his attemrt at smuggling, but rather for his stupidity.

A French court has denied a decree to a citizen of Lyons, who sought a divorce on the ground that his wife wore false teeth. What would become of the family circle over here, we wonder, were false teeth a sufficient ground?

Setting out that "the most of our Vermont turkeys come from the South and Southwest," the Detroit Free Press asks: "Now who will tell us where the Long Island ducks come from?" From the Middle West, of course, where we also get our Virginia sugar-cured hams.

Wallace Beery was robbed of $100,000 worth of valuable securities, out in Los Angeles, while changing his clothes. No spreader of joy and sunshine in paragraphs is ever going to be robbed of $100,000 worth of valuables while changing his clothes. There not only is a reason, but, as a matter of fact, two of 'em.

Owing to lack of raw materials, Moscow is undecided whether to resort to a seven-hour day or a five-working-day week. No better indictment of the ineffectiveness of communism could be offered than this—a shortage of raw materials in a land overflowing with almost all the raw materials which go into manufactures.

Americans who purchased "American" cars abroad are protesting that they have to pay forty-five per cent. duty to get them into this country. Why should duty not be charged on them? The fact that they are turned out by American manufacturers abroad doesn't tell anything so long as they are made of foreign material by foreign workmen. If the tariff wasn't passed to protect American workmen, why was it passed?

A Clever German Idea.

Facts gleaned concerning the monster Zeppelin in course of construction at Friedrichshafen under the direction of Dr. Hugo Eckener, who piloted the Los Angeles to America, go to show that it will greatly surpass in size, power equipment and convenience any dirigible extant.

The LZ-127—it is to be thus marked—has a length of 925 feet and a maximum diameter of 120 feet. It will be equipped to carry a crew of twenty-six, twenty passengers and fifteen tons of freight and be capable of making a flight of 6,250 miles without refueling. Under its fore part will be the steering cabin and the navigation and wireless rooms and amidship under it will be the passenger saloons and ten two-berth sleeping cabins. The quarters for the crew, storerooms, and baggage, mail and freight rooms will be in the interior of the monster.

The departure from the ordinary which makes the LZ-127 notable beyond even the matter of its size is the clever utilization of its lifting gas. Hot tofore Zeppelins have been designed to permit the escape of their gas as the weight of the gasolene they carried to operate their engines was reduced. Such waste will be obviated in this airship by her five 530-horsepower engines having been designed to use the lifting gas she carries as her gasolene load is diminished. This use of her lifting gas will make unnecessary the carrying of the great supply of gasolene which otherwise would be necessary to drive her engines.

For this novel departure the world must remove its hat in honor of the Germans, who not only introduced the Zeppelin but also have since held preeminence in its field.

Ohio's Opportunity.

Republicans of Ohio will be confronted on April 24 with an important political task in the selection of delegates to the Republican convention pledged to carry on until the best man is nominated for president.

Great and good men are available for the presidency and Ohio now is free to do its part in passing to one of them the responsibilities of the office. That is the outstanding advantage of sending to Kansas City an uninstructed delegation.

The untimely death of Senator Willis introduced, for a few days, a maze of political and legal questions as to privileges and conduct of such a delegation.

Candidates for delegate on the Willis ticket had committed themselves to him as Ohio's favorite son and first choice. That was right, and as it should be. Mr. Willis was entitled to this honor and this support. There was nothing binding on the delegate candidates, however, to preclude concurrence with other delegates in the nomination of another qualified candidate, if it should become plain in the convention that Mr. Willis could not win.

Then it was ruled, following Mr. Willis' death, that the names of all delegates pledged to him must remain on the ballots, and be voted upon at the primary. The pledge of these delegates to him has now been removed, and they become delegate candidates pledged to no man, but in honor and duty bound to assist with all their strength in the selection of the man best fitted to become the Republican standard bearer in November.

The Willis delegates for whom Ohio Republicans will vote on April 24 will occupy an unique position in the Republican convention. If all the Willis delegates are elected, they will control fifty-one ballots, and they will be an pledged ballots, but ready to be given to the man best fitted to be nominated, best suited to carry on the traditions of the Republican party and most certain of election.

These fifty-one ballots may go to President Coolidge, Charles Evans Hughes, Charles G. Dawes, Frank O. Lowden, Senator Charles Curtis, or to Secretary Hoover.

Delegates for Hoover are bound to him alone and this is the weakness of their position. By the time of the convention, it may be obvious that some one other than Hoover should be nominated—for not only must consideration be given as to what Republican is best fitted for the presidency, but also as to what candidate can be most surely elected.

Ohio is a pivotal state, in any Republican convention, as every one knows. On the day Ohio attends its primary, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania Republicans will also be attending their primaries. Massachusetts and Pennsylvania will send uninstructed delegates to the Kansas City convention. So will Ohio, upon the selection of those delegates to be found on the Willis ticket.

It behooves Ohio to send to the convention every candidate on the Willis ticket. At the outset of the convention these three great states—Ohio, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts—can take place in nomination, and agree upon, a candidate capable of election, and qualified to administer the office of president.

There is a strong sentiment for Mr. Lowden in the state, and many of the delegates incline toward him, yet there is a genuine feeling that serious consideration should be given to Mr. Dawes, a native Ohioan and a most deserving man.

Yet underlying it all—underlying everything which has to do with the Republican convention—is a well-defined hope that President Coolidge, under existing circumstances, may consent to the use of his name before the convention. Should that be accomplished it is a virtual certainty that the convention would nominate him by unanimous acclamation.

The selection of Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, as the temporary chairman of the convention, and its keynoter, is looked upon by political students as perhaps an entering wedge for him, in the consideration of the delegates, and there is a well-defined Fess boom in progress in several quarters.

So it is readily apparent that it will be distinctly to the advantage of every Republican in Ohio to have the fifty-one delegates at Kansas City unfettered by the claims of any candidate or group of workers. With his delegation thus free to act in accordance with its best majority opinion, Ohio immediately, like Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, becomes a mighty power in the convention—a power to be reckoned with.

Joy in Flaming Health.

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

One of old said: "Without health life is not life; life is lifeless."

I saw a moving picture a while ago. The hero of the story contracted leprosy. As soon as he discovered his plight, he hunted for a place to kill himself. The whole scheme of life was dead to the young man. Life could not be life without health.

Of course one can drag out a lifeless sort of existence in the absence of health. But the joy of living is gone when the hope of health is crushed. Life has indeed become lifeless.

Let me say in all tenderness to the chronic invalid that the situation is not quite so bad as Ariphron has pictured it. There can be planned a manner of living that will make the most of what is left.

The blind person is happy in the voices of his friends and the songs of the birds. The deaf person can read. No matter what may be the affliction there can be found some way of disregarding it.

When I was a small boy there lived in a house across from my grandmother's, a dear old lady who was bed ridden. She had had inflammation in all her joints. In consequence, she was crippled, hardly able to move in bed. Her hands were so drawn and twisted, she could hardly hold a newspaper.

To listen to this description it would seem as if this good woman would never have a smile or a kind word. As a matter of fact, I never knew a more charming, sweet spirited, entertaining and delightful soul. It was a joy to visit her, as I did many, many hours during my boyhood.

But there are ailments which are unnecessary. When they come from reckless living or violation of Nature's rules, we can not smile over them. Remorse is added to pain, and life becomes a dead thing.

With glowing, flaming, vigorous health, there is every incentive for useful living, happiness and cheerfulness of mind. This is the kind of living we must have if we are to carry out to the full the purpose of our existences.

There are so many ailments that can be traced directly to carelessness or deliberate neglect, that we should be ashamed of ourselves. We are sapping vitality and shortening the span of life by such practices. We are turning life into lifelessness by these performances.

The other side of the shield is quite different. With right living and right thinking there will be a fullness and richness of life that will be ample reward for temporary sacrifices.

Editorial Opinion.

A VETO CALLED FOR.

Credit seems to attach to the report that the president intends to veto the Jones flood control bill if it is passed in its present shape. Whether the report is well founded or not, it does credit to Mr. Coolidge's courage and sagacity. This measure is about one-third ill considered sympathy with the people of the flooded region and the other two-thirds an enormous raid on the treasury. It negatives the tax-cut which the president has proposed, and which is demanded by the people and by the state of business in this country. A proposition—for such it really is—to open the way to the expenditure of more than a billion dollars of the people's money for the relief and the immense material advantage of a limited section of the country signifies that the majority of congress considers that there is absolutely no limit to the public resources. It is said that the president has described the Jones measure, in its present state, as "an extravagant and defenseless" bill, and if he has so characterized it, he has told the truth.

The bill is defenseless both on account of its extravagance and its inequity. It proposes to endow the people of the lower Mississippi valley, or the owners of property there, with an enhancement of billions of dollars of value in their possessions, and without subjecting them to a dollar of expense except for the amount that they have already spent in temporary repair of the damage done, which is generously estimated at between two hundred and three hundred millions. It relieves them even of the one-fifth charge of the cost of the future improvement, which the president's message of December proposed. The bill refuses limitation of the government's expenditure to the $350,000,000 which the president, following the estimates of competent engineers, was willing to approve. It opens the way to the vastest outpouring of the people's money that either this or any other government has made for a single object short of defensive war, in the history of the world.

It is proper that a halt should be called on this very off hand and ill considered plunge into a reckless and inequitable expenditure. Surely neither the reputation of the president nor the fortunes of the party in power can be harmed by a veto of the Jones bill. On the contrary, both would stand to gain by it.—Boston Transcript.

TOURISTS FOR AMERICA.

There was a little story on the ship news page a week ago that ought to be good news to every one interested in a better understanding between Europe and the United States. It said: "There is now a definite spring tourist movement from Europe to this country." Nothing is so badly needed in the cause of good will as a redeeming of the balance of the tourist trade. Of distinguished visitors to America there is no end, but the motive most often is money or a mission, and if they care anything about the country and if they disseminate knowledge about it when they go home it can only be considered as a certain amount of velvet toward an understanding. The same can be said of the commercial travelers. But a tourist goes to a country primarily because he is interested in it, and while liking a place is not always the result of a tourist's interest, the chances are in favor of it. At any rate, he gets acquainted with it, and we are getting to a point where, in our own and everybody else's interest, we need to be got acquainted with and to be told about.

It is proverbial that tourists are always excited about things the natives take for granted, and there is no knowing what will become our high spots for European sightseers. One of them ought to be New York, for New York now is truly one of the wonders of the world. Perhaps a hint of the foreigner's interest is to be found in a statement by a member of the Hungarian delegation which went back recently. He said that the things which had struck them most in America were the actuality of the democratic spirit as shown every day between man and man—and the Ford factory. But whatever the travel agencies abroad will come to feature for the American tour, either spiritual or material, we could not do a better thing than give this tourist movement every aid. For we are building—we believe for good—a fabulous civilization in this country that is, unfortunately, throwing a clumsy like shadow across the sea, and it would be the best thing all round for more of the world to come and see it in reality, and see also that we are just people, after all.—New York Herald Tribune.

MASKERS AT GATES.

Hope, the great explorer,
Love, whom none can bind
Youth, that looks before her
Age, that looks behind,
Joy, with brow like Summer
Care, with wintry pate,

Power, with narrow forehead
Wealth, with niggard palm,
Wisdom old, whose hoar head
Vaunts a barren calm;
Haughty overcomers,
In their pomp and state
Maskers all and mummers

The Glozel Puzzle.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Glozel is a [illegible] in central France [illegible] miles north of [illegible], the famous [illegible] place. Th[illegible] two or three years ago readers of [illegible] articles will remember that a farmer found [illegible] very deep under the [illegible] of one of his fields, which lay on a slight [illegible] that had not been much cultivated, a number of clay tablets on which were inscribed [illegible] forms which were interpretated as alphabetical signs of ancient date. Some local archaeologists [illegible] concluded, after doing a little digging for themselves, that these objects belonged to the neolithic, or new stone age, and consequently were probably thousands of years old, or at least the famous Phoenician characters, so often regarded as furnishing the original for our alphabet. It was claimed that thirty or more different "letters" could be recognized, repeated in practically the same form on different tablets.

The revolutionary nature of these claims attracted wide attention, and some of the best known archaeologists of Europe visited Glozel, made easy explorations—easy because the strange objects are so near the surface, lying under grass and brush-covered soil—and arrived, in several cases, at the conclusion that the claims of the first discoverers were substantially correct. In addition to the strange inscriptions, there were other archaeological objects such as are customarily found on sites of ancient human habitation, including figures of so-called idols and one or two rude tombs or rough-walled excavations called tombs by their finders.

The inscribed tablets were found in such numbers that very soon the suspicion arose that there might be some trick behind the discovery. Some suggested that the objects had been manufactured recently and buried for the purpose of deception. That would be after the manner of the celebrated "Cardiff Giant," which was secretly interred in a filed in the Onandaga valley, in New York state, some sixty years ago, and, after being "discovered," and having puzzled the public and even some learned men for a number of years, finally became the appropriate property of P. T. Barnum.

A warm discussion arose in France over the curious finds, some insisting that they were undoubtedly of prehistoric age, and inventing the name "Glozelian period" to describe the date of their assumed making, while others affirmed that they were not prehistoric at all, but, at the most, not older than the time of the Roman occupation of Gaul. So high an authority as Salomon Reinach defended the neolithic view, while C. Jullian, the famous historian, insisted that they could only be of Gall-Roman date, if they were even as old as that.

Finally, last fall, an international commission visited Glozel to make an examination on the spot and to furnish a report which it was hoped would settle the question; at least so far as the genuineness of the alleged archaeological objects was concerned. This commission made an unfavorable report, whereupon a fierce debate broke out between the supporters of the claims of the "Glozelians" and their opponents.

The Fradins, the people on whose land the objects were found, and who had established a small museum for preserving the finds, declared themselves outraged by the suggestion of fraud made by some of the examiners connected with the international commission, and lawsuits were threatened. The bitterness was increased by the refusal of the French government after the report of the commission to include the Glozel site in the list of national prehistoric monuments. But still the advocates of Glozel as a real prehistoric site, capable of furnishing entirely novel views of ancient culture in western Europe, stood by their guns, and up to the present writing there has been no final and decisive answer to the question whether this whole matter has been a huge practical joke or is truly the lifting of an unsuspected curtain covering the beginnings of civilization.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, April 11—Three sons of New York millionaires have taken obscure jobs during the past year and all are reported doing good. There is nothing particularly about a rich man's son going to work. That's as it should be.

Yet it denotes the passing of a curious figure—the rich young idler. He has long been a headache among those gentlemen with a messianic message who mount soap boxes and harangue the multitudes. He was, in short, the cause of much social unrest.

Lately he began to feel the chill. A righteous contempt sprung up everywhere for those stockinged fops whose aim in life was to be valeted to the superior gloss of one of those Vanity Fair verandah hounds. He wasn't treasured even in his own set.

Work became, after a fashion, his only salvation. The breaking-up of the Four Hundred was largely due to the boredom of easy consciousness. Society began to [illegible] people who had achieved something in the world besides a handed-down fortune and an ability to ride to hounds and found it interesting.

The guest list at a society dinner these days is no longer a page from the Social Register. The social glitter now encompasses a sprinkling of playwrights, novelists, short story writers and up-from-nowhere heroes and heroines of the world of business and arts.

After all it seemed a little strange that a social register including a Kip Rhinelander ignored, say, an Edna Ferber or a Heifetz. There is no longer a "play to society" by the bourgeoisie. It is the other way around. The doers are courted. Society has become an army of celebrity catchers.

Also men who have made their way in the world no longer receive society's baleful glare and sneer of "nouveaux riche." Their parents may have seen America first through the porthole of the steerage, but that doesn't matter any more. Times have changed. None of these days wants a millionaire around because of his millions. He must be able to whistle through his teeth, or something at least.

The passing of the West Indian elevator operators in apartment-houses is noted. Only a few are left, whereas they once ruled the upper West Side residence section. Their impudence was unmatched by any other class of workers in a city noted for impertinence. The credo was they should be tipped into ordinary courtesy, and woe betide the tenant who ignored the creed. It finally got so a week scarcely passed without several of them being knocked deservedly cold by exasperated lessees. It also developed many were in league with robbers and tipped off when occupants of apartments were absent. They were a bad lot.

The apartment-house janitor, too, used to be a fearful ogre whose word was law. He has become a better boy, due to the fact that apartment space is no longer at a premium. The slightest back talk and the apartment is likely to be vacated. The poor janitor has had rough sledding lately. When basement dining-rooms became popular he moved to the roof penthouses and now that they are a fashionable rage he seems ot have no place left. Many who have suffered his insolence, however, could suggest places.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Statistics show that the average automobile tax is almost 300 per cent. greater now than it was in 1919. We all resent increase in taxes no matter how much more we get for our money or how greatly life is enriched. Automobiles are vastly more comfortable, more luxurious and more durable than they were in 1919 and we ought to appreciate that fact. It is hard to eradicate the human tendency to get something for nothing. Even in taxes there is often to be found some justice.

Distinguished medical men in conference in Chicago discuss the kind of preparation doctors ought to have. Sir Norman Hall, eminent Scotch physician from Edinburgh, advocates the most thorough training. He urges the firm basis of general education. An American dean of a medical college, believes that two years in college and three years in the medical school are enough preparation for a degree. Will not most of us vote with the Scotchman? And we would vote with him if he were talking about law, journalism or the ministry. There are too many half-trained, half-baked professional men. We are too eager to get our boys into careers before they are ready. To be sure, life is short. And it's too short to waste in being only half-way there. Better get under way late—and know where you are going and what it's about.

A child was afraid of a rabbit. A rabbit was put in a cage and the cage was set on a table. The child was then asked to eat his dinner at the other end. In fear he refused. Finally he got hungry enough to eat, in spite of the rabbit. At the next meal the rabbit was moved a little closer to the child. Soon the child was eating his dinner with the rabbit's cage right in front of him. Fear had been overcome by a definite effort. The only way to beat fear is to face it and conquer it by a definite act of the will, at whatever cost. Few of us have the advantage of having had the fears of childhood eradicated, as in the case of the child and the rabbit. It's a harder problem when we are no longer young.

It is estimated that the sun is losing 360,000 tons of material daily. But at that rate it will last a million years yet. And mankind on the earth will probably last as long as the sun. The time that man has lived on the earth is not more than three days in comparison with the time he is likely to live. But even at that it is logical to suppose that the sun will burn out some day and the life of man on earth be made impossible. That means that we are on the way, but not necessarily on the way out. The universe is apparently limitless or at least so large as to be practically unlimited. The end of life on the earth may not mean the end of life in the universe. What we need is more vision and a greater conception of a Creative Being.

April Still "Moving Month" in Marion, Inquiry Reveals

So an investigation was made here in Marion. It was found that there has been no change.

At the beginning of the month, one local transfer company was forced to employ 10 extra men to take care of the rush and the additional help was necessary to turn down jobs scheduled for April 1.

The moving vans travel the most near in shifting the [illegible] householders. Motor truck transportation is used now for long hauls where shipments were formerly made by railway.

Perhaps one reason why moving companies get most of the long distance hauling these days is found in a new ruling of railway companies requiring that all goods be crated. And crating, experience has shown, costs a considerable sum unless one lives in furnished rooms and has only a victrola and a smoking stand.

Ever-Increasing Tide of Migrants Tells Lover of Birds Spring is Here

By Prof. Allen C. Conger, Department of Zoology, Ohio Wesleyan University

NO matter what the thermometer may say, my calendar tells me Spring is now here and the ever-increasing tide of migrants proves the story. Busy weeks loom just ahead for the bird-student, who must be alert to check up on old acquaintances and make new feathered friends.

Before the first of April we expect to see Sapsucker, Field Sparrow and Vesper Sparrow, and by the tenth they are joined by the well-known Chipping Sparrow and the Purple Martin.

Some time between the 11th and fifteenth a clear whistled "pea-body-peabody-peabody" tells us that the White-throated Sparrow has dropped in for a few weeks visit. Sharp eyes may also detect Savanna Sparrows and Swamp Sparrows among their kindred in waste fields. The red-brown coat of the Brown Thrasher flashes into a thicket as he ends his free-lance concert. He is not a true thrush, but a genuine one, the Hermit Thrush, with bright brown tail, is now with us for a time. The Louisiana Water Thrush, really a warbler, has also come to haunt our wet woods.

After the tenth of the month, any day may bring the familiar Barn Swallow and the Chimney Swift, which is not a swallow despite his common name. Goldfinches, now in bright yellow and black, are here in numbers. The elfin Ruby-crowned Kinglet, with its dainty song of surprising volume, and its cousin, the Blue-gray Gnatcatcher may be found now, the latter most often in the very tops of tall trees.

From April fifteenth to twenty-fifth the Spotted Sandpiper (Tip-up) greets us at the water's edge with its whistled "peet-weet." Red-headed Woodpeckers are now decidedly in evidence. Two drab-colored Swallows return to nesting holes in steep banks or the stone abutments of bridges. The Rough-winged Swallow lacks the dark breast-band of the Bank Swallow. Male House Wrens arrive, prepared to make expert judgment on the handiwork of bird-house builders.

During the last ten days of April, we welcome the orange and black Baltimore Oriole and its smaller chestnut-black relative, the Orchard Oriole, together with their less conspicuous mates. The little Grasshopper Sparrow trills from a weed-stalk in dry meadows and the aristocratic White-crowned Sparrow pays its annual call. The yellow-rumped Myrtle Warbler, the Yellow Warbler, the creeping Black-and-White Warbler and the Ovenbird are out the land for their numerous kinfolk who are hurrying northward just behind them. In tall trees we hear the Warbling Vireo and the much less common Yellow-throated Vireo. A mewing note in a medley of bird calls tells us that the Catbird has come again to nest, perhaps in the shrubbery of our very dooryard. The beautiful Wood Thrush, that fine musician with his "golden leisurely" flute tones, joins our summer symphony.

And now the peak is reached. Between April 25 and May 5, we may with ordinary luck add at least eighteen species to our list. The Whip-poor-will, often heard but seldom seen, is here now. Three Flycatchers, the Kingbird, the Crested and the Least arrive. Bobolink, bursting with song, takes his station in our meadow lands. The Indigo bird and his dull brown mate appear. The striking black-white Rose-breasted Grosbeak now confuses the novice with his Robin-like song. The Black-throated Blue Warbler and the Black-throated Green Warbler, the latter with its drowsy wheeze, pay us a short visit and then hurry on to the north. The Palm Warbler, less common, is also here now. From swampy thickets peers the black-masked Northern Yellow-throat, then reveals its identity by its song of "witchery-witchery-witchery." Among shrubbery and in shade trees the restless salamander and black American Redstart and his yellow and gray mate attract our notice by their fan-spread tails. The Northern Water Thrush, en-route to northern nesting grounds, runs on his Louisiana relative in our damp woodlands. The brilliant male Scarlet Tanager, his song a husky Robin call, awakens our admiration by his pure scarlet and black plumage. The inconspicuous green and dull brown female may be located by her call-note, an emphatic "chip-churr." The solitary Vireo and the feathered mouse-hoist, the Red-eyed Vireo, play hide-and-seek among the leaves of our shade trees, while in the saplings [illegible] thickets we now [illegible] Olive-backed [illegible] cousin, the Veery [illegible] Wood Thrush.

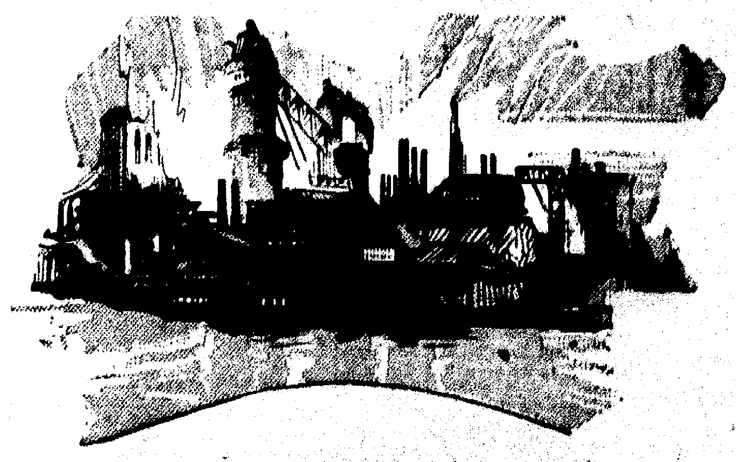
GAS HOURS 9:00 to 5:00 X-RAY

Politics Never Fostered Industrial Growth



Business is Business and Politics is Politics.

The gas rate is a business proposition and should not be permitted to continue a football of politics.

Politics never helped a city forward; never fostered new industries; never fed the working man and his family.

So let's take politics out of the gas rate. For more than three years politicians have made it impossible to settle upon a fair rate. In those three years both Marion and Your Gas Company have suffered.

There's absolutely nothing unfair in what your Gas Company asks. Your Gas Company is human—just as yourself. It costs you more money to live today than fifteen years ago. It is impossible to bring gas to Marion as cheaply as fifteen years ago and make a living wage. Gas must be brought from a greater distance. Service must be increased—this costs Your Gas Company thousands of dollars.

Your City Council should settle the gas rate now and for the years to come. It is up to you as a good citizen of Marion to support your council in taking the rate out of politics and making a final and rapid settlement.

"How does she keep her hands so LOVELY?"

"Those few whispered words made me flush with pleasure"

"'—the most beautiful hands, yet she does all her own work—'

"As I looked up from pouring tea, I realized with a thrill they were talking about me! I felt such a happy glow of pride . . . for my hands USED to be my despair!

"Now I find it easy to have soft, pretty hands, in spite of dishes to do three times a day. I discovered that by using Lux for all my dishwashing, my hands never became rough or red or chapped-looking. With Lux, they are even WHITER and softer after washing dishes than before!"

Millions of women who do their own work now have hands as flawless, as lovely, as if they never touched the dishpan! Because they wash dishes with delicate, sparkling Lux suds!

For these instant, magical suds are SOOTHING to even the most sensitive skin.* Lux is made by a marvelous special process—made whiter and thinner and purer than anything else. There is no trace of harmful alkali in Lux, nothing to dry up, to coarsen the skin, as there is in ordinary soaps—whether flakes, chips or cakes.

And Lux costs so LITTLE! In one of the big packages there is enough Lux for 6 weeks' dishes! So little to pay for beautiful hands!

*Many beauty parlors use Lux suds in manicuring the nails to soften and whiten the fingers

CHAPTER 20

CHARLEY CANFIELD ... in his shirt and under-... sewing a brown woolen ... coat of a pair of faded ... overalls, when somebody ... the door of his humble ...

... called Uncle Charley, ... good, but leave sin behind. ... home pure."

... and a young man ... the combination living ... and kitchen.

... Uncle Charley hospi-... and an empty nail-keg ... His alert, bright little ... of his brown, tight, ... whiskered face in a man-... the visitor to decide ... Charley resembled an old ... terrier more than any ... ever met.

... Uncle Charley Canfield?"

... folks! I reckon, however, ... strangers mighty well ... claim relationship." ... blame swept in frank, ... from the stranger's tan ... and modish riding-trousers to ... his olive-drab, belted coat, tan shirt, tan necktie, and gray, wide-brimmed hat. "Cripes," he declared, "you're a handsome brute! What's your name, what's your business, an' where do you hail from?"

"My name is John Thurlow. I'm a mining engineer in charge of the operations of the Hercules Hydraulic Mining Company, and I hail from Denver, Colorado. You're not so good-looking yourself, Uncle Charley, although I imagine that in your prime you must have been a devil."

Uncle Charley snickered. "I was a heller!" he piped. "I barred nothin'!" He held up his faded dungarees and critically surveyed his handiwork. "An' I'm there yit," he added, bringing his snaggle-teeth together with a snick, "even if I do look like a danged old crazy-quilt. Have a drink, boy?"

"With all the pleasure in life," John Thurlow sat down on the nail-keg and crossed one immaculate leg over the other.

Uncle Charley gazed half scornfully at the legs. "What'n hell d'ye wear them folderol britches for?" he demanded. "Dang it, I knew what you were the minute you come in. Seems to me 'taint possible for a minin' engineer to work at his profession no more unless he rigs himself up to look like the top half of an hour-glass."

"A long time ago I give up hope of ever seein' the president of the minin' company out o' short, baggy britches, woolly socks an' cap. Now that I know your name an' where you come from, you might tell me what your business is—with me."

Although Uncle Charley spoke irascibly, he was far from entertaining the slightest hostility to the stranger.

Indeed, he proceeded to demonstrate this by getting a bottle and a glass out of his cupboard and handing both to his guest with the cheerful suggestion that the latter measure his own poison.

Having complied with the suggestion, Thurlow answered Uncle Charley's query. "I've come up to have a talk with you—if you don't mind—about ... leasing on that section of land you own on the north fringe of Honey Valley. The Hercules Company has an idea it would pay it to turn the ... loose on that section and wash it down."

"Wash it down where, mister?"

"Into Honey Valley, I suppose. The California Debris Commission won't let us wash it out onto Dogwood Flats. The giants would just sluice your section away and deposit it in the valley below."

"Yes, I reckon 'twouldn't be no trouble to move a section of high land down into a section of low land. Reckon Honey Valley was just naturally made for that operation. Like puttin' mush into a big bowl." Uncle Cahrley slowly loaded his pipe, puffed furiously a minute, and then spat at the stove. "So you reckon there's gold in that hill section, eh?"

"We're willing to take a gamble on it," Thurlow replied noncommittally. "I am empowered to offer you a royalty of 10 percent."

"Hum-m-m!" said Uncle Charley. "How do I know I'll live to collect the danged royalty?"

"Well, you appear to be in excellent health, and it wouldn't take us more than three years to finish the job. How old are you now?"

"Older'n Kansas City," Uncle Charley shrilled. "I wouldn't bet a second-hand clay pipe I'll last till sunset."

"Then why are you mending those overalls?"

"A feller can't be buried naked, can he? Hell's bells, boy, if I'd felt any time these past three years that my appointed time wasn't at hand, I'd have bought me a new pair of britches. What with the uncertainty of life I don't see no use throwin' money away—not that I wouldn't throw it away if I had it," he added.

Thurlow laughed softly and decided that Uncle Charley Canfield was what is known in rural districts as "a character." He observed that the old gentleman was wearing a narrow-brimmed ancient straw hat with a faded tricolor ribbon and no crown. "Come down to the office some day and I'll give you a new hat," he suggested.

Uncle Charley's hand had flown to his rifle in the corner. He withdrew his hand without the weapon. "That was a close shave," he declared ominously. "I figgered for a split second you was about to offer me a pair of them pants. I'm old an' I ain't got long to live, but I don't figure on swallerin' insults from any Johnny-come-lately. Well, we'll let that pass. I suppose you mean well, Mr. Thurlow, but I can't accept that hat nohow."

"I tell you it's a new hat. It's just a wee bit tight for me and gives me a headache. You'd better take it. It isn't well for a man of your years and fragile health to have the hot sun shining down all summer on his bald pate."

"Summer's over," Uncle Charley snapped decisively. "Anyhow, I've took a vow not to get a new hat until the Republican party's out of office. When William Jennings Bryan gits his rights—"

"Better accept my hat, Mr. Canfield. Mr. Bryan is dead."

Uncle Charley bent over; he appeared to collapse like a concertina. "Well, that finishes me," he declared sadly. "All I been livin' for is to see him elected president. I won't last long now." He stared at the patch half sewed to the seat of his trousers, as if debating whether it was worth while to complete the task. "Oh, hell, boy! Pass over that bottle!"

He revived himself, spat at the stove again, and stared sadly at his visitor. "Mr. Bryan was all right," he asseverated. "He only had one bad fault. He refused to believe that man sprung from a monkey. Heh-heh! Heh-heh-eh!" Uncle Charley's chuckle was dry and mirthless. "Reckon he never seen the president of the Hercules Hydraulic Minin' Company in his gulf suit or he'd have changed his tune." He sighed deeply. "Well, man born o' woman is mighty small potatoes, an' few in a hill."

The mining engineer, concluding that Uncle Charley was about to depart upon a long, disjointed conversational pilgrimage, adverted to the subject of his visit. "The Great Commoner belongs to the ages now," he suggested politely. "Suppose you and I discuss present business. I think you're inclined to take a pessimistic view of life, Mr. Canfield. I'll bet you a hundred dollars you'll be spitting at that stove 10 years from now."

"I was never a man to take advantage of youth an' innercence, son."

"Very well, we'll not bet. But I'm here to tell you that little old 10 percent royalty is mighty liable to make your declining years very comfortable."

Uncle Charley glanced around his dingy, ill-smelling cabin. "Well, I ain't complainin' none. I got all my grub in for the winter, my subscription to the Minin' Age and the Scientific American is paid up a year in advance an' I'm two years behind my readin' of the popular magazines. I got my winter wood cut an' stowed in the wood-shed and I reckon my pants'll last till spring; I got a ton o' oats and three ton o' alfalfy hay on hand for my mules 'n I don't give a hoot in hell whether school keeps or not. I'm independenter'n a hawg on ice. If I can't stand up, I can set down."

"Well, of course, the independent man is always rich, no matter how poor he is, but as a mining man you've got to admit—"

"I'm that independent I don't have to admit anything," Uncle Charley shrilled. "Now you're talkin' about this here royalty, an' if I don't shet you up there'll be no end to it—like combin' your hair with a hoop. Suppose after you've soshed that hill section down into Honey Valley, you don't find enough gold in your riffles to load this pipe. Where's my royalty? An' where's my section o' land?"

"Why, that's the gamble you take, Mr. Canfield."

"Call me Uncle Charley," the curious old man commanded. "I ain't takin' no gumble—at my age. I reckon that section stays where it is."

"Very well, Uncle Charley, have it your own way. We're through discussing royalty. What will you take for that section if we agree to buy it outright?"

Uncle Charley sat straight up. "Whoa, Nellie!" he cried softly. "Steady, gal! Don't kick the buggy to pieces."

"We'll do all the gambling," John Thurlow urged.

"One hundred an' fifty thousand dollars, United States gold, of the present standard of weight an' fineness, young feller. Take it or leave it," Uncle Charley barked. "My price is net."

"Sold!" cried John Thurlow quietly.

MAILING ADVICE

Postmaster Suggests Use of Special Delivery for Mothers' Day

Cards and other remembrances sent by mail for Mother's Day, May 13, will undoubtedly exceed the total of last year, according to an opinion expressed today by Postmaster French Crow, who adds that unless these tokens are received on or before May 10, the sentiment and value attached to them will be considerably lessened.

As May 13 comes on Sunday, there will be no regular mail deliveries. For that reason, the postmaster suggests the use of special delivery stamps in addition to the regular postage for greetings intended for delivery on or near Mother's Day. The remembrances should then be deposited in the mail, he states, so that it will reach its destination Saturday night or Sunday morning. Otherwise, delivery is not promised.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Wednesday, and when I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth I wrapped my shirt tail around my hands and let him down on the run till he was near the ground and then I slowed him up sudden. The way he looked up at me and wagged his tail when he got on the ground, I knew that he had thought he was falling.

We have got quite a lot of horseradish around back of our kitchen, and all the bunch almost says they have got some in their yard. Everyone is going to dig what they have got and bring it to our barn, and Saturday morning they are going to swipe their mothers' nutmeg graters and we are going to grind up all the horseradish in the world and go around selling it for a nickel a tin cupful and make some chink. Soon it will be summer and before so very long there ought to be a circus come to town, and then we will have the money to go to it without asking my grandfather or anyone.

Mush's wife has done all the janiting for the school this winter ever since Mush got a job on a truck, and she gets money for that and he brings home the money he gets for driving a truck. Mush's wife got her a new lid Easter and she is going to go to church Sunday and knock the Lord's eye out. She said so herself. Feeble told her she shouldn't talk that way because it wasn't nice, and we all said Feeble was right. Mush's wife said to get away from her basement or she would drown us, and I said to go ahead and drown us and I would tell the teacher what she had said. So then she said she didn't mean it, and she didn't mean what she said either but she was going to go to church and make some of the old sisters crall anyhow, and if we wanted to tell the teacher she said that it would be all right with her. I asted her if she didn't wish she had about ten husbands driving trucks, and she said not if they were all like Mush.

Feeble asted to see Mush's wife's new hat, and it is sort of old rose color, and pulls down on her head like a fella pulls a boot on his foot. Feeble said she thought it was on kind side before, so she turned it around and pulled it down clear over Mush's wife's face, and then she kissed her and said "Stop that, Thomas Aristides!" Then she kissed her again and hollered, "Niks, you stop kissing her! Aren't you ashamed of yourselves!"

And we were all having a good time and thinking Mush's wife would blow up, but she just grinned kinda silly and said, "Aw, let them alone. Boys will be boys." Then the Last Rag of Time bent a pin and hung a pin-cushion on the back of her dress where all could set down on it if she sat down, and all skun out leaving the kid and ...

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

LILLIAN lost no time in making the explanation she had promised to Philip Verriten. With the tinge of burlesque which she often used in relieving the strain of a tense situation, she marched us to the center of the library, released our arms, pushed chairs toward us, and struck an attitude of attention with her fingers touching her forehead.

"I'm not the one who needs your counsel, Phil," she began. "Madge has——"

He interrupted her summarily, while the look in his eyes as he turned them on me would have been most gratifying to my vanity if I had allowed it any latitude.

"You need me," he said tensely. "How can I——"

"You can keep quiet until I get through talking," Lillian admonished him crisply. "Madge doesn't need your advice for herself, but she is deeply concerned about Miss Lincoln's safety. She will tell you about it, but she feels a certain reticence about betraying the young woman's confidence to anyone not conversant with certain surprising facts concerning her. If you have any romantic knowledge that you are keeping to yourself, I'd advise you to spill it before Madge begins talking. Then the cards will all be on the table. I'll be on the veranda, if you want me."

She was out of the room with the door closed before her upon the echo of her last words, leaving Philip Verriten with his usual poise of manner artificially rippled.

"But this is astounding," he said. "Please sit down and tell me about it. Have you discovered who Miss Lincoln really is?"

I looked at him steadily.

"Yes, I have. I told him, but——"

He held up his hand in a gesture well known to the members of his famous organization. Everyone from his highest ranking assistant to his humblest office boy knew that it meant: "Stop! Wait till I have spoken."

"Then you know," he said, "that Miss Lincoln is really the Princess Olina of Transvania, who was supposed to have been carried aboard ship terribly ill and who is now reported to be slowly convalescing at one of her father's palaces. You see I am following your friend's instructions and laying my cards upon the table."

I gave a quick, little sigh of relief, for I knew that I now could tell him freely of my fears for the girl.

"Yes, I found that out finally today," I said, "although I have suspected the truth for some time. But Miss Lincoln herself confirmed my conjecture this afternoon, and explained the thing which had puzzled me. You see I had seen a photograph of Princess Olina with Fedor—a reproduction of a painting in a continental art gallery and I was puzzled by her nose."

He laughed outright at something in my tone.

"You haven't been as used to studying theatrical make-up as I have," he said. "But I'll admit I was puzzled for a few minutes at my first sight of her after the operation had been performed upon her nose."

"That was at our welcome-home dinner to Lillian and Marion, was it not?" I asked, remembering the tense scrutiny he had given Eleanor Lincoln upon that occasion, and the odd amusement he had betrayed afterwards as of at a jest which he alone knew.

"Yes, but how did you know?" he asked, and when I told him there came a gleam into his eyes—a look which held admiration and something more, puzzling.

"I shall have to be careful what I think when you are near me," he said smiling. "But enough of that. What is this danger which you fear for Princess Olina?"

"I wish I knew," I said slowly. "She has given me no confidence concerning it, but I know that she is terribly afraid of some mysterious menace, and I feel that there should be some guard put over The Larches, at night, at least until the windows can be fitted with bars. Jerry Tarer and Henry, the man who has posed as her uncle, are the only men in the house. Of course she has the wolfhound, but I cannot help feeling afraid for her."

BIRTHS FAR AHEAD OF DEATHS IN MONTH

Stork's Deliveries More Than Double Grim Reaper's Toll in County

Nineteen births were reported in the county, outside the city of Marion, during the month of March, according to a report prepared today in the office of Dr. N. Sifrit, county health commissioner. Ten were boys and nine were girls.

Births were more than twice the number of deaths reported in the territory outside Marion. Eight deaths were reported, from the following causes:

Pneumonia, 3; influenza, 1; ulcers, 1; heart disease, 1; carbuncle, 1, and complications, 1.

HOME IS BURNED

Clarksville, April 11—Fire of undetermined origin, which destroyed the home and filling station of Milan Chorovich, near the Provident Mine early today, caused an estimated damage of $10,000. Chorovich was asleep and narrowly escaped being trapped in his burning home.

LONG ASSOCIATION MAKES PEOPLE TO GROW ALIKE

Chicago—Persons who live together for many years grow to resemble one another, Professor Frank M. Freeman of the University of Chicago told a conference of the Child Welfare League here.

That is especially true of children, the professor said. He claimed that orphans, adopted by a family, in time begin to resemble facially their foster parents.

Inversely brothers and sisters who have become separated early in life cease to resemble one another.

"Intelligence is not hereditary," Prof. Freeman contended. "In instances where orphans have been placed in homes of intelligence, their own intelligence begins to improve whereas if they had been placed in homes where the intelligence was meager, they would improve only slowly.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

VERILY, my Daughter, I charge thee give thine heart unto NO man unto whom thou canst not forgive all things—even his SAINTLINESS on the Morning After!

* * *

For lo, it is easy for a doting woman to forgive her Beloved for his big sins and sometimes, for his little follies. But the "stained glass" attitude, wherewith he "repenteth," who can BEAR it?

* * *

Behold, while the game lasteth, and the wine floweth, and the flappers flatter him, a woman's pleadings are but "nagging" in a man's ears. And all her tears serve only to wash away his love.

* * *

But when the sport hath lost its zest, and the wine is on the lees, and he hath wearied of Other Women, and his head is a thing of pain, then doth he perceive the error of his ways, and return to the straight and narrow path.

* * *

Then doth he seek his Beloved, but NOT with humility and meekness and ashes upon his head.

* * *

Nay, verily. He cometh unto her, not as a penitant, but with felicitations and wreathed smiles and laurels in his hair, as one who might say:

"Look who's here, thou Lucky Little Woman!

"Come, greet me with kisses and cover me with praises. For, lo, I have decided to be GOOD! Let us kill the fatted pullet, and rejoice!"

* * *

And behold, if she welcometh him not with hallelujahs and open arms and hymns of praise and thanksgiving, he is crestfallen beyond measure and filled with astonishment.

* * *

Yea, he IS wroth! For who is so filled with virtue and puffed up with self-righteousness, as a man who hath JUST decided to "reform"?

* * *

Who is so patronizing as a man that hath turned over a new leaf and is filled with good resolutions?

* * *

And if the woman falleth not upon his neck with rejoicing, then is he moved to reproach her, saying:

"Oh, VERY well

"Thou art smaller than a restaurant prune and more unresponsive than a frozen engine, and the virtue of a GOOD man is wasted upon thee."

* * *

Go to. Let no damsel wed a man unto whom she cannot forgive all things, unto seven times seven times—even his sanctimony, in the hour of his "repentance".

For, verily, verily, then is FORGIVENESS the acid test of Love.

PARIS RAISES RENT ON EIFFEL TOWER GROUND

Paris— Things are always going up at Eiffel Tower but the rent there has begun to rise for the first time since 1889, the year it was constructed.

The four bases of the tower enclose 600 square yards for which the Eiffel Tower Company pays $200 a year. This amount is about the annual rental of a maid's bedroom in the adjoining apartments houses. City fathers have just discovered the assessment for Eiffel Tower has never been revised.

For three years the surface of Eiffel Tower has been used for an electric automobile advertisement, so the revised assessment may set a new world record.

Twelve years ago Mrs. Olive E. Frank of Buffalo went to work as a stenographer for an engineering and heating concern. Today she is the president and manager of a similar corporation of her own and has designed and patented some special engines and condensers.

They belong to the first regiment of the Belgian cavalry, the "Regiment of des Guides" which distinguished itself during the war, and of which Prince Charles, second son of the king, is a member.

Their repertoire includes everything from Bach to Igor Strawinsky.

Capable Scoutmasters and Assistants Serve in Work Throughout Harding Area

Prominent Business and Professional Men Enlisted in Active Direction of Boys' Activities in District

FROM the time a boy first enrolls in a Scout Troop until he grows into manhood, responsibility for his training rests upon the shoulders of his scoutmasters and his assistants.

When a new troop is organized special care is taken to secure leaders capable of handling boys, while assistants are selected with equal care.

Scoutmasters and assistants in the Harding area at the present time are:

FRANK G. GLOSSER

One of the most important figures in the organization of the Marion Boy Scout Council and later the Harding Area was Frank G. Glosser, prominent Marion man.

Glosser was the first president of the Marion Council which was organized in 1925. In 1926 when the Harding Area was organized he was named chairman of the council. Under his direction the Scout movement advanced to great heights. He still continues to head both bodies.

SCOUT OATH

On my honor I will do my best:
To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law;
To help other people at all times;
To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

SWIMMING ONE OF REQUISITES

Practically All Scouts Are Thoroughly Trained in Water Sports

More than 19,500 boys learned to swim in Boy Scout camps last summer, according to the report of Fred C. Mills, national director of swimming and water safety, made public by the Boy Scouts of America today. The report shows that 996 boys received certificates and emblems as competent Scout Life Guards and that more than 485 camps made practical use of the "Buddy System," which was originated by the Scout movement as a safety first measure at camp.

The report is based on a survey of 523 Scout camps and does not include the scouts who learned to swim at Troop or Lone Scout camps. The statistics shows that 4,918 more boys learned to swim at Scout camps in 1927 than in 1926, although the record of 14,049 new swimmers, made in 1926, was thought to be an unbeatable record by swimming instruction authorities.

Thoroughly Supervised

Strict supervision is maintained over water activities at all Scout camps by qualified Red Cross life guards, many of whom are scouts. The Buddy system, which pairs off all boys in camp and makes each responsible for his buddy while they are in the water has done much to decrease the number of drownings and water accidents at Scout camps. The Buddy system was originated and put into practice by Captain Fred C. Mills.

The boy at camp, who is already a swimmer, is instructed in the life saving requirements necessary for the Life Saving merit badge of the Boy Scouts of America and the Junior and Senior life saving awards of the American Red Cross. It is an interesting fact to note that most of the life savers, now acting as expert instructors and supervisors of water safety in Boy Scout camps are swimmers who learned life saving as Boy Scouts.

Many Medal Awards

Although complete records for the year 1927 are not yet available, the National Court of Honor of the Boy Scouts of America, have already awarded for that year to Scouts who risked their lives to save others, more honor medals than were presented on any previous years. The honor medal is the highest award in Scouting and the large number given this year is an evidence of Scouting's service to others.

At the close of the camping period at John A. Owens here last year, but two of the 200 Scouts enrolled were unable to swim.

TRAINING PROVIDED FOR SCOUTMASTERS

At Least 40 Expected To Take Course in Harding Area This Year

The recognized need for more and better Scout leaders has led to the establishment of a Scoutmasters' Training Course prepared by the department of education of the National Council.

This course runs over a period of five years during which time new and old leaders are given early and advanced training intended for the development of more capable scoutmasters.

32 Enroll in 1927

The plan was first instituted in the Harding Area last year, when 32 enrolled. It was held under the direction of Scout Executive W. C. Brown.

This year's training course will be held during the latter part of October or early September. Plans are being made by Mr. Brown to take care of at least 40 Scoutmasters.

During seven weeks of the course those enrolled will be formed into a troop. Men of more experience are given the higher offices of leadership and under these circumstances Scout work is studied with practically every problem that develops in the training of boys is taken up.

FOUR NEW TROOPS

Organization Work in Progress Under Direction of Area Executive

Organization of four new Boy Scout Troops in the Harding Area is being completed by Scout Executive W. C. Brown. Three of these troops will be in Marion County.

The new troops in Marion County will be Nos. 11, 12 and 13 while Troop No. 5 is in Crawford County. Preliminary work for these troops has been done at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Marion and at LaRue and Kirkpatrick.

If a woman can't keep a secret she can always find some other woman to help.

The older the pessimist is the less faith he has in human nature.

AID GIVEN IN WAR ON BOY CRIMINALS

Scout Movement Tremendous Help, New York Official Says

Scouting as a factor in overcoming delinquency is stressed in the annual report of John S. Kennedy, a member of the commission of correction of the state of New York.

In reporting an army of more than 10,000 boy criminals in New York state who commit 44 per cent of all crimes that take place, the commissioner stated that the aid of such movements as the Boy Scouts, Y. M. C. A., Y. M. H. A. and the Knights of Columbus is their greatest help in decreasing crimes. A plea for a "tremendous widening and extending of these activities" is made in the report.

ASSOCIATE SCOUTS

Active members of Boy Scout Troops ordinarily hold weekly meetings. This is the condition of membership that is on whenever possible. In case a Scout is unable to do this he can, by action of the Troop Committee, be named an Associate Scout. He must meet all requirements of other Scouts.

KNOW FLAG

Scouts must know the composition and history of the American Flag. This is one of the first requirements a Scout is compelled to pass before being admitted into a troop.

SCENES AT CAMP JOHN A. OWENS

CAMP JOHN A. OWENS, six miles south of Marion, is the summer home of Boy Scouts of the Harding Area. The above photographs, taken by The Star, show some of the scenes that are well known to the Boy Scouts of this section.

At the top the swimming pool—filled with water from a drilled well—is shown. Scout Executive W. C. Brown, who also acts as camp director, is shown in middle right while one of the lodges where Scouts sleep is at the left.

The lower scene is the Council Ring, where honored members of the Tribe gather for nightly ceremonial pow-wow. Ashes from all council fires rest on the pile of rocks in the center.

Proclamation by Mayor

April 11, 1928.

WHEREAS, it is the custom of the Boy Scout organization to set aside and observe certain occasions of especial community interest, it is fitting that proper notice be taken of their activities.

WHEREAS, in the 16 years that have elapsed since the forming of the first troop in Harding Area, the Boy Scouts have constantly served the public whenever called upon and because of the high standards of usefulness, and because of their willingness always to render public or private help, it is fitting that the people should take official recognition of Harding Area Boy Scout Week.

NOW THEREFORE, I, Earl M. Hazen, Mayor of the City of Marion, do earnestly recommend that the citizens of this community give attention to the activities of the Boy Scouts of Harding Area on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 12, 13 and 14.

(Signed) EARL M. HAZEN, Mayor.

Area to be Represented at Big Scout Event at London

WHEN the Scouts of Harding Area enter camp this summer it will be with the idea of being among the favored youths to be sent to the World Jamboree in London.

The jamboree is the greatest event in Scouting with representatives present from the entire world. It will be held during the first two weeks in August, 1929.

One or more Scouts will be sent from this area, according to plans that have been formulated by officials.

Scouts representing the Harding Area in this worldwide event will be chosen from those attending Camp John A. Owens on qualifications set by officials.

List of Qualifications

These qualifications will include rank and personal achievement, public school record during the ensuing year, attendance at troop meetings and Scout-like service rendered to troop, home and church.

All expenses will be paid, including transportation.

It is the aim of the Harding Council to select boys who will return prepared and willing to devote knowledge gained towards the best interests of the area. Each will be given positions on the camp staff the following year, so that all Scouts may profit by the trip.

National Leaders Endorse Activities of Boy Scouts

"If every boy in the United States between the ages of 12 and 17 could be placed under the whole some influences of the Scout Program and should live up to the Scout Oath and rules, we should hear fewer pessimistic words as to the future of our Nation."

The situation was handled much easier by reason of organized Scouting."

JUNIOR SCOUT PLAN STARTED

Program Provides Branch for Boys Under 12 Years of Age

The development of a program for young boys below Scout age has been undertaken by the Boy Scouts of America. The minimum age for Boy Scouts is 12 years in the United States. It is now planned to make provision for the 5,000,000 juniors whose ages range from eight to twelve years. Programs have been developed with great success in Canada and in several of the European countries where the Boy Scouts are active.

Dr. H. W. Hurt, who has had long experience in educational work especially in reference to adolescents, has been selected as executive officer to work out the development of the program in collaboration with an advisory committee of leading educators a special committee of the executive board, Boy Scouts of America, and the national officials of the Boy Scout movement.

Special Plan

Essentials of the new program will be a plan designed for a small group of boys and one which is also concerned chiefly with the home, because of the great youth of the lads who will come within its scope.

Thousands of boys eagerly await the coming of their twelfth birthday in order that they may take their tenderfoot tests to enter scouting. It is this group for which the new program is intended, but it is to be so worked out as not to overlap into the Boy Scout program.

Scout Executive Brown stated that this program does not mean that the age limit for Scouts is being lowered. In work and activities the new organization will be entirely separate and different from Scouting.

FIRST AID

Stopping bleeding by means of pressure has been a feature of first aid training taught Scouts that has saved many lives. Charts of points of pressure are included in the Scout Hand Book.

MINIMUM NUMBER

At least eight Scouts are required to register before a new troop can be started. Troops are registered once each year each member receiving a packet membership certificate.

PICK SCOUTMASTERS

Scoutmasters, leaders of Scout Troops, are picked local men who are interested in boys. They serve without pay and are subject to regulations set down by the Scout Charter.

CHARTERED GROUP

Like the Red Cross, Scouting is chartered directly by Congress and the president of the United State is its "Honorary President."

First Annual Observance of Harding Area to Open Thursday; Runs 3 Days

Four Counties Represented in Event Sponsored by Rotary Club as Feature of National Boys' Week Celebration in Marion

SCOUTING will reign supreme in Marion during the next three days when the first annual Harding Area Boy Scout observance, sponsored by the Rotary Club, gets under way Thursday.

An elaborate program in which approximately 400 Boy Scouts from Marion, Crawford, Morrow and Wyandot Counties will take part has been mapped out under the direction of Scout Executive W. C. Brown.

Scoutcraft will be exhibited in display windows at 15 business places in Marion and Scouts of the district will compete for honors in various branches of the work in Star Auditorium.

The observance is arranged as a part of the celebration of National Boys' Week in Marion under the direction of the Rotary Club. In co-operation with the club, local Scout Troops directed a series of marble and kite flying contests for boys under the age of 12 years.

Pow-Wow Friday

The big event of the observance will be held Friday afternoon and night in Star Auditorium when a pow-wow is held and the Court of Honor meets to award merit badges.

The afternoon session opens at 2:30 o'clock with events in first aid, knot-tying, message relay, signalling, fire drill, barrel tilting and one mystery event scheduled on the program.

At 8 o'clock merit badges will be awarded by the Court of Honor. A fire by friction event will be held with a gold medal being awarded to the Scout bettering the previous speed record. A trophy will be awarded the Troop winning the inspection. Two stunts will be given as another feature on the program.

Following the meeting of the Court of Honor a concert will be given by the Mt. Gilead Scout Band, the only organization of its kind in the area. Both of these programs will be open to the public.

Clark To Preside

John H. Clark, local attorney, will act as chairman of the court which will award 203 merit badges. Scouts throughout the Harding Area will be awarded these badges, which will include a veteran and an eagle badge.

Many branches of Scouting will be represented in the exhibits that are being arranged with the co-operation of Marion merchants.

Each Troop in the city has been assigned one or more of these exhibits and Scouts will be detailed to present displays illustrating activities coming in the training given boys.

These windows will be decorated Thursday night and will be displayed to the public for the first time at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Stores at which exhibits are to be held and the work shown are: Lennon Furniture Co., aviation; H. F. Blake, Florist, handicraft; Van Atta Hardware, carpentry; Frank Bros. ISSUE 400,000 COPIES OF BOOK

New Scout Manual Supplies Big Demand Throughout Country

Four hundred thousand copies of the new Boy Scout handbook have been printed. The new handbook has been completely revised and in the opinion of Scouts and scoutmasters is far superior to the old handbook.

The first book came off the press in November and since that time 400,000 have been printed and still there is a great demand for the book. The new manual was revised by the editorial board composed of Wm. D. Murray, Frank Presbrey and Henry Van Dyke.

Strictly Boys' Book

The new book is fascinating the young Scouts. The old material has been presented in a new way. It becomes a story book and not a school book. Illustrated with hundreds of sketches which prove an additional attraction, the new book is strictly a boy's book.

The old manual was written by men for boys. The new handbook is written by older Scouts for Scouts. Harding Area Scout headquarters has received a large supply of the new handbooks and is now prepared to supply the boys in the council with the new handbook.

"BE PREPARED"

"Be Prepared" is the motto of the Boy Scout. A burning building, a life in danger and a hundred and one other daily emergencies constitute problems in which Scouts are trained in advance.

TAUGHT KNOT TYING

A complete variety of useful knots are included in the early training of Boy Scouts. Each higher step in the Scout World finds a greater knowledge of knots necessary.

KNOW YOUR KNIFE

Every Boy Scout must know the proper use of his knife and axe. In many instances on First Class Scouts are permitted to carry the Scout axe.

Character Building and Training in Useful Activities Are Among Advantages Gained from Scout Experience

Members Are Rewarded for Faithful Effort and Achievement

WHAT is scouting?

That is one of the most common question coming to him, Scout Executive W. C. Brown says. Scouting and the work of the organization is very much misunderstood by a majority of the people, he states.

Scouting, as explained by the executive, is a program that teaches the boy to learn to do by doing. It rewards him for faithful effort and inspires him to local, active citizenship.

It builds character through the daily good turn; service to the community; health through outdoor fun. It is America's accepted program for boy development, and is the community's opportunity to direct the energy of boyhood into useful channels.

The Scout movement is chartered by Congress and the chief executive of the United States is its honorary president. Its purpose is to train boys to do things for themselves and for others. It breaks the habit of self reliance and makes real men out of real boys.

Scouting supplements the training of home, school and church, giving boys wholesome companionship in worthwhile activities. The movement is neither military nor anti-military and carefully avoids political or commercial entanglements.

Cooperation is the keynote of Scout work. Scouts are always ready to give aid to police, fire departments, Red Cross, Rotary, Kiwanis American Legion, Chamber of Commerce, churches, schools and other community projects.

What Scouts Do

Scouts camp, hike, swim, and engage in all forms of outdoor activities. They know knot-tying, nature lore, life saving, first aid, fire building signaling, cooking, map-making, tracking, fire prevention and safety first.

Any boy may enter scouting at the age of 12 years. To become a full fledged scout he must learn the tenderfoot requirements. He has to know the Scout Oath, the 12 Scout Laws, the Scout Motto, Scout Sign, Scout Salute and the significance of the Scout Badge. He must know the composition and history of the flag of the United States of America and the customary forms of respect due to it. He must be able to tie the square knot and eight useful knots.

After being a Scout for a period of 30 days the ambitious boy can advance to the next higher rank—that of Second Class. The requirements are: first aid signaling, tracking, Scout pace, use of knife and hatchet, fire building in the open, caring for it and putting it out, cooking, points of the compass, safety first, live up to scout oath and law. He must also have earned one dollar and deposited it in the bank.

Sixty days after passing the second class tests a Scout is then eligible to become First Class in ranking. To obtain that rank he must improve his skill in signaling, first aid, cooking and thrift; swim 50 yards; understand hiking, map-making, judging; identify birds, trees and constellations; furnish evidence of living up to the Scout oath and law.

Process of Advancement

After this fundamental training, advancement is designated by merit badges covering a wide range of arts, crafts and sciences. Star Scout rank is achieved by qualifying in any 5 while the Life Scout must have earned 10 merit badges, including first aid, athletics, personal health, public health and pioneering. The highest rank is the Eagle Scout which may be attained after having served one year as a First Class Scout. Twenty-one merit badges are required for this rank, most important of which is life saving.

Included in the list of merit badges are:

Agriculture, angling, archery, architecture, art, astronomy, athletics, automobiling, aviation, bee keeping, bird study, blacksmithing, botany, bugling, business, camping, carpentry, chemistry, civics, conservation, cooking, craftsmanship, basketry, bookbinding, cement, leather, metal, pottery, wood working, wood carving, cycling, dairying, electricity, firemanship, first aid, first aid emergency unit, first aid to animals, forestry, foundry practice, gardening, handicraft hiking, horsemanship, interpreting, insect life, lumbering, machinery, marksmanship, masonry, mining, music, painting, pathfinding, personal health, photography, physical development, pioneering, plumbing, poultry keeping, printing, public health, rabbit raising, reptiles, safety first, scholarship, sculpture, seamanship, signaling, signaling emergency aid, stalking, surveying, swimming, taxidermy, textiles, soil management.

Advancement Is from Tenderfoot Stage to High Rank of Eagle Scout

BOY SCOUTS all over the United States are celebrating the Eighteenth Anniversary of the Boy Scout Movement this week. This organization, eighteen years old and more than 2,000,000 members is one of the biggest forces today in the building of MEN of CHARACTER.

"The Scout takes the boy at an age when he is apt to get ensnared in the complexities and false values of our latter-day life, and it turns his attention toward the simple, the natural, the genuine. It provides a program for the utilization of his spare time outside his home and school and church duties. While oftimes recreational, it is in its best sense constructive."—President Coolidge, Honorary President, Boy Scouts of America.

A Scout is Loyal—He is loyal to all to whom loyalty is due, his Scout leader, his home, and parents and country.

A Scout is Friendly—He is a friend to all and a brother to every other Scout.

A Scout is Courteous—He is polite to all, especially to women, children, old people and the weak and helpless. He must not take pay for being helpful or courteous.

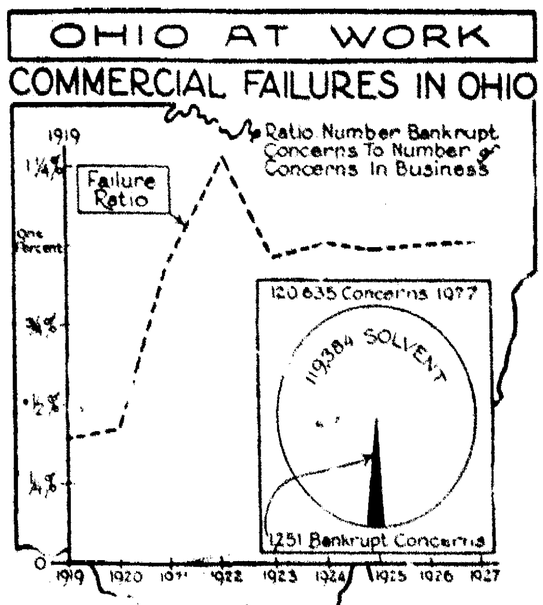
A Scout is Brave—He has the courage to face danger in spite of fear, and to stand up for the right against the coaxings of friends or the jeers or threats of enemies, and defeat does not down him.

A Scout is Clean—He keeps clean in body and thought, stands for clean speech, clean sport, clean habits, and travels with a clean crowd.

A Scout is Reverent—He is reverent toward God. He is faithful in his religious duties, and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion.



BANKRUPTCY overtakes Ohio concerns infrequently. Of each 100 firms doing business in the State, approximately one went into receivership in 1927.

The actual number of concerns reported bankrupt during the year was 1,251, according to R. G. Dun & Co. The total number of concerns operating in the state was 120,635 of which 119,384 continued to be solvent. Bankruptcy in 1926 numbered 1,229 firms or 22 less than in 1927.

Liabilities of insolvent concerns declined slightly from 1926 to 1927. In 1926, liabilities totaled $22,286,927 but fell off slightly to $22,021,125 in 1927.

Ohio's commercial failure rate is shown in the following table:

Year	Rate	Year	Rate
1919	0.38	1924	1.02
1920	0.42	1925	1.00
1921	0.97	1926	1.02
1922	1.36	1927	1.03
1923	0.97

The commercial failure rate is the ratio of the number of bankrupt concerns to the total number doing business.

CHICAGO PLANS BIG SOLDIER MEMORIAL

Committee Named To Take Hold of Proposal; Form To Be Decided

Chicago, Ill., April 11—Ten years after her sons died on the battlefields in France, Chicago is undertaking to draft plans for a World War memorial.

While other midwestern cities have erected various memorials to the dead in the World War, this city has, as yet, taken no such action, and plans have been suggested by James Simpson, chairman of the Chicago Plan Commission.

"It does not seem to me that provision of a war memorial is within the province of the commission," Simpson said. "Yet it has occurred to me that under the circumstances, the commission might well take the initiative in the creation of a special war memorial committee, composed of outstanding civic leaders, in whose impartiality, judgment and patriotism the people of Chicago may have full confidence."

Committee Named

John A. Holabird, architect, has agreed to serve as chairman of the committee fostered by the Chicago Plan Commission. Other prominent members who have accepted the problem are Co. Albert A. Sprague, Gen. Abel Davis, Col. Robert R. McCormick, Howard P. Savage, R. P. Lamont, William Rufus Abbott, Sewell L. Avery, Julius Rosenwald, Roy D. Keehn and Edward H. Bennett.

The committee will begin its investigation into the most feasible form for the project without prejudice.

"It must not be thought that the Chicago Plan Commission has any preference as to the type of memorial, its location, cost or any other feature in connection therewith," Simpson declared in a letter which he sent to the members invited to join the memorial committee.

"Our investment is, primarily, ... that a proper memorial ... type, in ... location, ... that ... war ... may ... given ...

war, and those who fought in the war."

Financial Support

Various prominent Chicagoans have indicated that they will lend their financial and moral support to the project, which would make Chicago the site of one of the most imposing memorials in the country.

Starting without any conviction as to what form the memorial will take, the committee will be at liberty to consult prominent architects and artists from any place for ideas. In a short time, it is believed, the committee will be able to suggest a definite project which might be completed by the time the World Fair is held here.

Numerous sites already have been suggested and offered for a memorial.

As soon as a decision is reached on the type of the project, which probably would involve the expenditure of several million dollars, means of financing will be taken up by leaders of the memorial idea.

Laundry-washed-clothes Guard Health

"A Scout Is Clean"
—from the Scout Law

...because every step in the laundry process has been planned for complete sterilization as well as cleanliness. For instance, more than 600 gallons of filtered, rainsoft water are used in the numerous suday baths and velvety rinses given the average family washing... The ironing process is equally purifying... Delicately adjusted ironing rolls, steam-heated to sterilizing temperatures, purifying the fabrics as they smooth... Many articles that require no ironing are dried and sterilized in heated air currents that speedily destroy any lurking foe to health... Methods vary, of course, according to the types of materials... But in every case the process insures hospital standards of sanitation that definitely guard health... Visit a modern laundry... Then you, like millions of other women, will confidently turn to the laundry—for the superior workmanship, amazing economy, and absolute cleanliness that it can give you...

The car, described by Mr. Price as being Model 28-27 and carrying dealers [illegible] 2757, was parked in front of the apartments at 10 o'clock last night and was taken some time between then and the morning. The theft was reported to the police at 9:00 o'clock this morning. The machine was also described as bearing motor No. 2139041. No trace of the car had been found by the police this afternoon.

Shortly after 9 o'clock last night Rose Patten, 100 Thompson st., called the police to report the theft of a Chevrolet coach. The car, which was taken from S. State st. near the Grand Theater, was described as a 1927 model, carrying Ohio license A71-00 and motor No. 5390197.

Main st. and a Chevrolet coach, bearing Ohio license 11-140, was picked up on Olney-av. The Chevrolet license, the police said this morning, had been issued in Columbus. What Is To Be Seen in April Skies

BY DR. C. C. CRUMP
Director of Perkins Observatory, Ohio Wesleyan University

(Editor's Note: The positions of the constellations in the sky chart are those for Perkins Observatory, Delaware, Ohio, at 9:30 P. M.)

URSA MAJOR is found overhead just north of the zenith in the night sky for April at the time given below the chart. The line of stars forming the tail of the Bear points toward Arcturus, the bright star in the constellation of Bootes. To the north and east of Bootes, is seen Ariadne's Crown or Corona Borealis, a semi-circle of stars of the fourth magnitude. The brightest star, Gemma, in this constellation is two magnitudes brighter than the other stars.

Below Ursa Major and south of the zenith is the "Sickle" of the constellation Leo. The brightest star in the handle of the "Sickle" is called Regulus. To the east and south of Regulus, the brightest star which can be seen is Spica, in the constellation Virgo. Below Spica one can locate a quadrilateral of stars which marks the location of Corvus or the Crow. The twin stars Castor and Pollux are conspicuous in the western sky. Procyon, the bright star in Canis Minor, is to the left of this pair and Capella in Auriga is on the right.

Hydra, the Water-Snake, a constellation which extends almost a fourth of the way across the heavens is seen below Leo, Virgo, and Corvus. On the back of this serpent rests the cup, Crater, an inconspicuous constellation formed by a semi-circle of faint stars, below which is a line of three other faint stars, the whole resembling a wine glass.

Ursa Major Most Ancient

Ursa Major, the great Bear, is the most ancient of the present groupings of stars. The seven stars forming the Dipper were called a bear by the Phoenicians, the Persians, the people of India, and those of North America, as well as the Greeks.

The constellation was called "the Wain" in the time of Homer. In England, King Arthur's home was placed in the constellation and it was called "Arthur's Wain." Perhaps one of the best known appellations is "Charles' Wain" which is taken from "Charlemagne's Wain."

One tribe of North American Indians called the four stars forming the bowl of the Dipper the bear. The first star in the handle was to them a robin, the next star a chickadee carrying stpot, and the last star a pigeon. One spring day the chickadee saw the bear, he told the robin and they told the pigeon and together they started on the hunt. All spring and summer they followed the bear. In the fall they succeeded in cornering their victim and the robin shot him with an arrow. The blood flowed so freely that it covered the robin. As he tried to clean himself, the drops of blood fell to earth and tinged the leaves but he did not succeed in cleaning his breast and that is why he has a red breast, even to this day.

Mizar in Handle

The star in the bend of the handle of the Dipper is called Mizar. It is one of the most interesting stars in the sky. It was the first star to be noted as a telescopically double star; that was in 1650. It has, also the distinction of being the first spectroscopic binary star.

In August, 1889, Professor E C. Pickering observing the spectrum of several of the stars noticed that the lines in this particular star were alternately single and double. After a study of this phenomenon he came to the conclusion that the bright star was in reality two stars which revolved around each other. The period was found to be approximately twenty and a half days.

In addition to this there is a visual companion, Alcor, a fourth magnitude star, 14.5 seconds of arc away. It is said that the Arabs used the separation of these two stars as a test for keenness of vision. The two stars are readily seen and if the legend be true, the test was not an exacting one.

It is certain that this star "belongs" to Mizar as it is moving in the same direction and at the same rate as the brighter star. There is, however, some doubt as to whether or not the two stars are physically connected. If the two stars do revolve about their center of mass, the period is great, possibly in the neighborhood of a million years.

Alcor is also a spectroscopic binary star with a short period. Although it seems to be faint it is nevertheless to be considered as a giant sun more powerful than our own.

To be truly cheap Pavements must resist weather

—BRICK DOES

Weather damage, along with heavy traffic, must be considered in making a wise paving investment.

A pavement surface that is not constructed to prevent it, takes in water by absorption or through cracks. In cold weather this freezes, expands, destroys. Or sets up destructive chemical change. On to this pile the pounding of 10-ton loaded trucks, heavy busses and other heavy traffic, and big maintenance bills are inevitable.

Paving brick, being vitrified, cannot absorb water. Laid on any good base, with sand cushion and bound with asphalt, the brick surface is impervious. Weather does not injure this surface, or get through it to injure the base. It is subject to no chemical changes at all; it has necessary resilience, or "give" to keep shocks, pounding, from the base; it is the toughest wearing surface man makes.

Brick surfaced pavements save money because they are so durable and cost less to maintain.

"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual, tells in words and pictures how engineers today build ever-enduring, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 331 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

Officials and a taxi driver rushed to the aid of the imprisoned child. They, too, saw it with outstretched arms as they drew near the house.

Jumping fences and breaking in the door they lost no time in reaching its side, only to find it to be a doll, life-like in size and appearances.

Three True Bills Reported at Kenton; Eight Cases Investigated

Kenton, April 11—Three true bills, one of them secret, out of eight cases investigated, were returned by the Hardin County April grand jury Tuesday afternoon after a two-day session. Fourteen witnesses were examined by Prosecutor Loucks B. Brown.

Robert Johnson Foraker youth, was indicted on a charge of assault with intent to kill and Lee Fackler, Dola, was indicted for petit larceny. Johnson, it is alleged, attacked an elderly woman of near Roundhead when she refused him money. He had stopped in her home to get warm, officials said.

No recommendations were made by the jurors following their inspection of the Hardin County jail.

Major League Teams Swing Into Action As Season Opens

250,000 RABID FANS PREPARE TO ATTEND STARTING OF BATTLE

Cloudy Skies Hold Little Worry for Followers of Game on Initial Day

New York, April 11—Approximately a quarter of a million rabid fans in eight major league cities scanned the heavens with anxious eyes today, by instructions to be telephoned to the office that they were violently ill, and forthwith departed for the park of their favorite baseball team in the best of health and spirits.

Enthusiasm was rampant, for today marks the official opening of the baseball season. A day when even chronic tailenders look like champions to their loyal supporters, who have temporarily forgotten the disappointments of yesteryear.

The enthusiasm was fairly uproarious in Boston, where the astounded fans turned out in droves to marvel at the lowly Red Sox, who jumped to first place in the American League by defeating the Senators, 7 to 5, in yesterday's "false start" at Washington. The game was moved ahead one day in order to give the opening presidential sanction.

The usual parade and flag-raising ceremony will precede the start of each of the eight games today. Predictions of "overcast skies and possibly rain at night" in several of the eight cities failed to dampen the ardor of the fans, who began gathering at the gates of the various parks long before the gates were opened.

A double opening will be held in New York, with the Giants meeting the Boston Braves at the Polo Grounds and the Brooklyn Robins facing the Phillies at Ebbets field, Brooklyn. "Cloudy and warmer, with rain at night," was the weather man's prediction.

Mayor James J. Walker will toss out the first ball at the Polo Grounds and John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader, will open the ceremonies at the Robins' park.

Fifty thousand fans were expected to crowd into the Polo Grounds to watch the Giants perform against Roger Hornsby, their former idol, and his fellow Braves. A capacity crowd was considered certain at Ebbets Field, which seats only 30,000. The Robins finished their training season by thrashing the Yankees yesterday, 7 to 2, squaring the series.

The probable batteries for the two games are:

New York—Benton and Hogan; Boston—R. Smith and Taylor.

Brooklyn—Petty and Hargreaves; Philadelphia—Ring and Wilson.

COLUMBUS SENATORS LOSE TO MILWAUKEE

Brewers Hold 11 to 10 Lead at End of 10 Innings; Zumbro Hurt

Columbus, April 11—In a wild batting game here yesterday, the Columbus Senators lost the opening day contest to the Milwaukee Brewers 11 to 10.

Both teams hit freely. Emery Zumbro, formerly with Coshocton in the Eastern Ohio League, suffered a bruised finger on his pitching hand in the fifth inning when he attempted to stop a hard, line drive after relieving George Lyons, Columbus pitcher, in the third inning.

Zumbro, during his short stay on the box, was apparently the most effective of any of the Senator twirlers. He is expected to be out of the game for at least a month.

THE GAME

Kansas City and Mud Hen Game Stopped by Darkness

Toledo, April 11—An eleven inning pitching duel, called because of darkness with the score at two-all, was the menu served baseball epicureans who braved a chilly afternoon to witness the opening day game between Toledo and Kansas City here yesterday.

Emilio Palmero, veteran Cuban pitcher, was on the mound for Toledo, champions of the American Association. Long Tom Sheehan pitched for the Blues until the last two innings when Nelson relieved him.

The racing posture of all the best speed skaters is practically the same. The back is kept straight and horizontal the arms foled across the back except when spurting, then they are swung from side to side, keeping time to the stroke.

Bruce Caldwell in Roll of Young Business Man

New York, April 11—The average [illegible] might young man [illegible] to start at the top [illegible] but it seems that [illegible] storm center in the [illegible] at Yale over eligibility could be expected [illegible] unless arrangements [illegible] It is gathered that, if Mr. Caldwell had been approached in [illegible] he might have consented [illegible] name appear on any [illegible] there were enough of [illegible]

The [illegible] authors, cause [illegible] being Mr Caldwell's New York friends [illegible] was only a coincidence that they proposed to couple his name with a casual mention of the Cleveland Indians and the Chicago Cubs. You see, Mr. Caldwell is a ball player and so they would like to have him play baseball when the heat of Summer is so oppressive to those of sedentary occupation.

A Bright Young Man

But he also is a bright, young business man, or will be on or about June 15, and so they wished to have him identify himself in a prominent way with the magnate's outside business, if any. It seems fortunate that the Indians and Cubs happened to be mentioned in this connection.

In the case of Cleveland, there would be the Bradley's interests in railroads, steamships and other trivialities. In the case of Mr. Wrigley, there would be his gum and not speaking of pyorrhea, either.

It was and is a great idea and there is no doubt that Mr. Caldwell approved of it, for there is nothing like getting paid, going, coming and as is.

But there is one deterrent and it is important. Unless the New York Yankees are grossly in error, Mr. Caldwell already is committed to their employ—on the ball field only—by word of mouth as a gentleman and a graduate of dear, old Yale, which last mean almost the same thing.

Mr. Caldwell doubtless is thankful his friends for having started something in his behalf, even if it couldn't be finished. Cleveland, for one, might have been glad to do business with him on these terms, for the young man is supposed to be one of the great college hitters of the generation and the Indians had Joe Wood right on the ground to advise him in a strictly impartial spirit.

But, unless the Yankees are mistaken, it simply won't to be. If Mr. Caldwell wishes to ride on the railroads or chew a stick of gum or both, it will be essential that he pay for the privilege. Jake Ruppert, of course, has his brewery but at the current content of one half of one per cent, Mr. Caldwell may decide that he will have done enough for Ruppert, already, if he happens to hit a couple in a pinch.

It may be all for the best. For the story of Duster Mails, eccentric left hander, and the late Charley Ebbets, of Brooklyn, comes all too readily to mind. Duster, it seems, decided to earn something on the side and furnish Ebbets, who then was his employer, with a pleasant surprise. So the young man utilized his spare time, which was almost lavish, in painting the outfield fence at Ebbets Field during the off season.

When Duster was finished, he summoned Mr. Ebbets to the scene of his handiwork.

"What do I get?" he inquired at length.

Mr. Ebbets pondered the question a moment.

"The air," he said, finally, and thereafter the interest of the profession in year-around employment with ball clubs languished.

Notes From Ball Parks Here And There

COLD, cloudy weather, but no rain, is on tap for this afternoon when the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs open the National League season here, according to the weather forecast.

The veteran, Adolfo Luque, will be the Reds' starting pitcher, with Hargrave on the receiving end. Charley Root, big right hander, and a traditional jinx to the Reds, is scheduled to start for Chicago, with Hartnett behind the bat. Reserved seats for the opener have all been sold for many weeks.

* * *

CHICAGO, April 11—An old-fashioned parade, terminating at Comiskey Field, will precede the opening of the baseball season here today. The popular White Sox club, under the leadership of Ray Schalk, will clash with the Cleveland Indians in the American League's official start-off here.

A clear, sunny day, with just enough zip in the air to make the fans step lively, was the contribution of the weather man.

Thirty-five thousand fans, including a contingent of rooters from Cleveland, are expected to set in for the inaugural contest. Chief among the attractions will be Chalmer "Smilin' Bill" Cissell, the new $125,000 addition to the Sox family.

Batteries were announced as Uhle and L. Sewell for Cleveland and Lyons and Berg for Chicago.

BOSTON, April 11—The revamped but shivering Boston Red Sox, who trailed the American League last year, returned home today on the Federal Express from Washington leading the league as the result of their 7 to 5 victory over the Senators.

They will try to repeat this afternoon at Fenway Park when the season officially opens. Gov. Alvan T. Fuller will toss the first ball to Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols.

Jack Russell will pitch for the Red Sox, while Fred Marberry is likely to be the senator's choice. Hofman, Red Sox, and Tate, Senators, will be the backstops.

The weather was clear and cool with a biting easterly wind, but a large crowd of fans was expected to give the game a roaring send off.

* * *

DETROIT, April 11—Cool and fair weather was on hand today for the opening baseball game in the American League between Detroit and St. Louis.

Whitehill and Woodall for Detroit, and Gray and Schang for St. Louis, were to be the batteries.

* * *

ST. LOUIS, April 11—The Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Cardinals, pennant winner and runner up for the 1927 baseball season clash here today in the curtain raiser of the National League's fifty-third race.

A bright sun appeared this morning.

John A. Heydler, president of the National League was scheduled to watch the first game here accompanied by Mayor Victor Miller. Approximately 20,000 are expected to attend.

The probable batteries are Haines and O'Farrell for the Cardinals and Kremer and Smith for the Pirates.

NEW YORK YANKEES PLAY MACK'S TEAM

Top Notchers of American League Clash in Opener at Philadelphia

Philadelphia, April 11—The Yankees and Athletics open the baseball season here this afternoon with Lefty Grove scheduled to do the hurling for the home team and probably Herb Pennock, another famous southpaw, on the mound for the New Yorkers.

Not only is it the start of the present baseball season between the two clubs rated as the top-notchers of the American League but just as equally important it is—the opening of the twenty-eighth season for Connie Mack, at the helm of the Athletics.

The inaugural bids fair to pack Shibe Park to the limit for all reserved seats were sold 10 days ago and scalpers were reported getting $10 and $15 a throw for the prized pasteboards as the day dawned overcast and cold with a threat of rain due by game time at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Mayor Harry A. Mackey will throw out the first ball. Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, veterans both, will patrol the outer garden for the A's supplementing the Yankees' famous home-run kings, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

NOTICE

Bids will be received by the trustees of Waldo Township for furnishing power not less than twenty horsepower tractor for grading and ditching roads in said township.

Bids to be in not later than the evening of the 11th day of April, 1928.

The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Signed RUSSELL SYCKS, Clerk.

DEMPSEY WILL STOP IN NEW YORK TODAY FOR JOHNSTON TALK

Boxing Expected To Be Theme of Conference; Fans Await Action

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, April 11—Jack Dempsey, the well known ex-fighter, will arrive in the town where the crucial money matches about which today talk, if he follows the script faithfully, he will listen to reaffirm his several denials of the canard, freely circulated by those of an unethical trend of mind, that sooner or later he means to retire from retirement.

He asked Jimmy Johnston to meet him and, unless you assume that he wishes to talk to James about the high cost of Roman candles, you naturally would connect the conference with boxing. Anyhow, Johnston has taken the message to mean that he will be asked to manage Dempsey and all I can say is that I hope James is enough of a philosopher not to go jumping precipitously off tall buildings later in the day.

For one of Dempsey's intimates assured me today that, if Johnston ever had a chance with the boy friend, he has almost none now. The idea is that Dempsey isn't likely to consider that managerial acumen or any other kind has been copiously displayed by a man who rushes into the streets to read a confidential telegram.

Dempsey is known to have messaged Billy Duffy, his second in the Sharkey and Tunney fights, not to pay too much attention to what he saw in the newspapers "for the next few weeks." The message was received "a few weeks" in advance of Rickard's announcement that Dempsey was through.

Dempsey, at or about the same time, asked Leo P. Flynn to be ready to take charge of him in June at the Orangeburg, N. Y., camp of Gus Wilson. And to another friend, who said he had had to "stall" certain parties about Dempsey's retirement and wanted to know the answer, Dempsey is said to have replied, in effect, "stall them a little while longer."

Somehow, I am unable to view the retirement of Dempsey as something for Rickard and Tunney to be so highly pleased about.

CLAIMS RIGHT

Phil Scott Says He Should Have First Crack at Tunney

London, April 11—Phil Scott, British heavyweight champion, and ex-horizontal champion, is the legal contender for Tunney's title, in the opinion of Charlie Rose, Scott's manager in London.

In an interview he declared:

"I think Heeney will have to prove that he is superior to Scott before the British public will give a heavyweight contest their support in sufficient numbers to enable Tex Rickard to satisfy Tunney's financial demands.

"Apart from that," he added, "I am of the opinion that it would be an insult to the intelligence of the British public, as Scott has beaten Heeney twice, to overlook the British champion's claim to a match in this country with Tunney.

John L. Sullivan, the champion of champions, often was heard to declare that he had never told a lie in his life.

CRISP NEWS TO CIGAR SMOKERS, 5c

One nickel. It won't break you, and it won't make us. But it will bring you some real news about cigars—and Havana Ribbon in particular. Not that this thirty-year-old cigar hasn't always been clearly at the head of five-cent cigars. But Havana Ribbon today carries a story of quality and money value never before attained in the history of 5-cent cigars: It's ripe tobacco.

Ripe tobacco (the full-flavored middle leaves of the plant) gives a cigar a true, mellow-mild flavor you can't mistake. Long filler keeps the tobacco in the cigar—and out of your mouth (no short, loose ends). Not another cigar made that combines these two great features with such completeness for the money.

Popularity has done it. Millions being smoked. Immense production has brought manufacturing costs down and quality up. Try Havana Ribbon and get the startling significance of these facts direct. A nickel is all that stands between you and a pleasant surprise.

Also sold in Practical Pocket Packages of five cigars.

CENTRAL LABOR UNION
Headquarters N. W. Cor.
Main & Church
Marion, Ohio.

TO THE BUSINESS INTERESTS OF MARION:

The Marion Central Labor Union desires to co-operate with you and the better business department of your association to eliminate certain abuses that create unnecessary antagonism between the business interests and the Marion labor movement.

On many occasions the business interests are called upon by labor publicity committees representing various outside journals and time tables of many descriptions, even to complete folios that have no legitimate labor connection. Many of these committees are not members of the labor movement and employ coersive methods that create antagonism.

The Marion Central Labor Union is the bonafide centralized labor body in Marion, which is created by a delegated system, representing all organizations of union labor that are eligible to participate under the rules of the American Federation of Labor.

The Marion Central Labor Union desires to discontinue the demoralization and antagonism that is created by the abuses described, and in order to accomplish this the Central Labor Union has created its own committee of competent trade unionist which will annually call upon the business interests to represent the Labor movement of Marion through its bonafide central labor body—The Marion Central Labor Union.

The business interests are requested to receive this committee annually, who will bear a credential with seal of the Marion Central Labor Union, for the purpose of placing the Marion Labor movement through its bonafide central body in a more desirable relationship with the business interests.

The Marion Central Labor Union requests the filing of the letter for reference and protection against the deception and imposition practiced on the business interests and the labor movement. Also to call phone 7978 and the Marion Central Labor Union will respond with a responsible committee to co-operate with the better business department of the Merchants' Association to correct these conditions that are against the mutual interests of the business institutions and the labor movement.

To those merchants who do not co-operate with the better business bureau of the Merchants' Association, we call upon you to enter wholeheartedly in this plan that you may be equally benefited.

(Signed) Ralph K. Ruppart,
(Secretary of the Marion Central Labor Union).

Confusion, Irregularity Attends Trading On Market

STOCKS RALLY IN LATE JUMP

Sharp Recoveries Follow Morning Slump Through Bearish Activities

Markets at a Glance

Railroad stocks, firm; industrial stocks, irregular; domestic bonds, firm; foreign bonds, steady; call money 6 per cent a 5 1-2 per cent; grain, strong; cotton, firm; copper, steady; oil, steady; rubber, reactionary; sugar, firm; pig iron, firm; foreign exchange, irregular.

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, April 11—Trading in the stock market was attended with considerable confusion and irregularity today. In an effort to take advantage of the temporary squeeze in the money market in the forenoon, bearish traders threw in a heavy load of selling orders for the market speculative leaders, and prices continued the downward movement which was in progress at Tuesday's close. Liquidation and profit taking helped to swell the total of selling orders coming to the market in this period.

Sharp recoveries were scored, however, as soon as short covering and speculative buying reached sizable proportions in the early afternoon. Though call money renewals started the day at six percent, there was no dearth of funds.

The rally in the industrial and motor stocks reached largest proportions in the early afternoon, with the decline of the call money rate to 5 1-2 per cent General Motors and Radio, with U. S. Steel and American Can led a spirited advance. Radio jumping about seven points to 180 and General Motors five points to above 194. Wright Aero snapped back 8 points to 130, and Montgomery Ward sold up about four points at 141.

NEW RADIO LAW KILLS POLITICAL BROADCASTING

Paris—Clandestine broadcasting stations which diffuse political propaganda must go with the voting of a bill by the Chamber of Deputies 400 to 20 that there were only two legal broadcasting stations in France.

Premier Poincare charged that the Communist party had been using a secret station for broadcasting speeches made by members of their party.

The bill as passed is a temporary one giving all private stations a chance to dismantle before July next at which time the Chamber engages itself to prepare a new bill.

MOSCOW WOMAN JUDGE SENTENCES HORSE BEATER

Moscow—Cruelty to animals has just drawn a sentence of a whole year in jail at hard labor for an 18-carat one-horse wagon driver. His helper got two months in jail because he failed to "exert his influence" to stop the unmerciful whipping of the horse.

Pedestrians who witnessed the affair protested to the driver. He continued lashing the animal, however, until one man attempting to grab the whip. The driver kicked him in the abdomen. A cop shared the same fate. Reserves were called and the driver dragged to the police station. A bobbed haired woman judge sentenced the man and his helper the next day.

One doesn't have to know everything. He only needs to know where to find out.

Beware of always talking common sense. There are occasions when it is de trop.

100 BRITISH PEERAGES MAY SOON BE EXTINCT

London—One hundred British peerages are in danger of extinction owing to the fact that the present holders have no heirs.

In all there are 250 peers without sons, 150 having only heir-presumptives.

In the majority of instances the world has been responsible for this gradual dwindling of the peerage, although many of the heirless peers are only the first holders of their titles.

Nearly half the baronetage is in the same position.

Even if riches did bring unhappiness some people would struggle for them just the same.

Best method of having your own way is to keep still about it.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Markets were quiet today. Dealers report buying about normal with ample supplies of nearly all kinds of seasonable fruits and vegetables available. Prices were, on the main, unchanged from yesterday. New potatoes were being offered at four pounds for 25 cents. Old potatoes continue plentiful but high in price. Red River varieties were selling at 55 cents a peck, the peak price of the season. No prospects for an immediate drop are being mid out by dealers.

Leaf vegetables continue plentiful. Spinach and leaf lettuce were both being quoted at two pounds for 25 cents, head lettuce at 10 and 15 cents a head and endive at 25 cents a pound.

Old cabbage is becoming scarce. What little is on the market was being offered today at five cents a pound. New cabbage is selling at eight cents and is supplying the bulk of the demand. Cucumbers were supplying a limited demand at 25 and 30 cents. Peas and green beans are holding at 30 cents a pound, with a light demand. Green onion are selling at 10 cents.

Strawberries Costly

A few strawberries continue to supply a limited demand, the quality is good and dealers are getting 28 cents a pint. Grapefruit continues plentiful and was selling at a wide range of prices this morning. Small varieties were selling as low as 65 cents a dozen and larger sizes at two for 25 cents. Oranges also continue to sell at a wide range of prices. Small California fruit could be bought today at 14 for 25 cents and larger sizes at from 25 to 65 cents a dozen.

Pork prices continue unchanged, retail merchant dealers reported today. An advance however is looked for within the next week. Beef and veal prices continue high.

Prices on various products are as follows:

New Potatoes, 4 lbs. for 25 cents.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, April 11—Waiting for the government report to be issued on the condition of winter wheat and rye, grain traders curbed their speculative propensities and watched with listless interest prices churn slowly up and down within narrow ranges. At the close wheat and corn showed losses of ⅜ to ½c for the session; oats and rye were unchanged to ⅛c off, according to the Herald and Examiner.

The government condition on Winter wheat of 68.8 and on rye of 70.3, was extremely bullish. The average of the private estimates on wheat was 73.9, but it was said that private reporters figured on a different basis from the government. The condition of 68.8 offered by the latter applies to the entire acreage planted with an average reduction.

It is estimated that this condition suggests a crop a shade under 520,000,000 bushels.

If the abandoned acreage proves to be as large as private reports estimate, the next government report will show a smaller crop.

Irrespective of the government figures, which concern the crop condition as of March 31, the wheat situation does not present so bullish an aspect as many good judges thought they discerned some weeks ago.

Damage Reports Aplenty

Plenty of damage reports come in from private sources, it is true, but one observer who has confined his scrutiny to the same fields in this state for the last month, instead of jumping around and looking at different areas, tells me that several of them which looked hopeless two or three weeks ago are coming to life and promise a good yield.

In considering damage reports on wheat at this time of year it is always wise to be cautious in accepting the estimates of injury made. This is not because the crop reporters do not say what they really see; it is because what they see so long before harvest is worth very little in giving an idea of what the crop will be.

There is no greater fallacy than the supposition that there is any special scientific method of determining at this time of year how a field of wheat will turn out. The [illegible] attempts to do it is pure [illegible] spring warmth is likely to have a decided sentimental effect on the trade. Nature, putting on Summer dress, is full of promise of good times. It is hard to believe even that there is a famine in far away China when here every plant that grows seems to be getting ready for a fruitful season.

A [illegible] to [illegible]

COAL ORGANIZATION HEAD SPEAKS HERE

B. F. Nye Addresses Local Dealers at First of Series of Meetings

Probable effect on the coal miners' strike on the future price of coal was portrayed as uncertain by B. F. Nye, secretary and treasurer of the Michigan, Ohio and Indiana Coal Association, at Hotel Harding last night, speaker at the first of a series of meetings to be held by local retail coal dealers.

The speaker also emphasized the importance of service to the public and included in his talk a number of suggestions that could be adopted by the local dealers.

The purpose of the meeting, it was explained by coal dealers today, is to promote closer co-operation between the local dealers and to study methods of improving service. Twenty-two dealers attended the meeting, which followed dinner served at 6:30 o'clock.

The next meeting will be held at the Hotel Harding on April 21.

NANCY PRICE, FAMOUS ACTRESS, SHIP WORKER

London—Nancy Price, famous actress, worked on a drifter for six months during the war, disguised as a boy, it is now revealed.

Trained from girlhood to understand the sea and its ways, Miss Price is a skilled yachtswoman. When war broke out she was determined to use her experience in the service of her country.

Without telling anyone of her intentions, she cut off her hair, assumed male attire and took employment as a ship's boy on a drifter.

It is a remarkable fact that for six months she was able to carry out her job without anyone on the drifter, except the skipper, realizing she was a girl.

She took her turn at the wheel, stood her watch and did the cooking."

YALE'S JUNIOR PROM MAKES PROFIT OF $114

New Haven, Conn.—Staging the Junior Prom at Yale, this year cost just $7,500.14. The committee known as the '1929 Prom Board', made a profit of only $114.15 but it has gone on as the best since 1923 to run a prom at a profit. Last year the deficit reached $1,228.58 and there was talk of giving up the historic Yale event.

Among the items of expense this year was police and fire service costing a total of $124. The students paid $5.50 to have a University eight-oared shell hung up for decoration, and they paid $75 for a wooden spoon. The committee running the Prom had a private banquet costing $172, and they spent $85 having their pictures taken.

CLEVELAND MAN CLAIMS DISCOVERY OF PROCESS

Cleveland—Herbert R. Palmer, electrical inventor and engineer of Cleveland claims he discovered the process of sending pictures over the wire more than 20 years ago, and which only a few years ago was hailed as a marvelous invention when put in practical use.

Palmer called his invention the "telectrograph." The Cleveland inventor first sent wire pictures in Berlin. Later he exhibited his equipment at the Pan-American Exposition in Buenos Aires. A company was organized known as the Electrograph Company of America and $1,000,000 worth of stock at $10 a share was offered. The public was not interested, Palmer says.

GREATER HUNGARY AIM OF PEOPLE, LEADER SAYS

Cleveland Ohio—A Hungary to encompass the entire Hungarian people and a country which will be a greater Hungary than ever before, where the population will be purely Hungarian is the ideal effort for which all true patriots of that country are striving to-day, Baron Sigmund Perenyi, president of the Hungarian Senate, stated, during a recent visit to Cleveland.

The Hungarian Baron, who heads a delegation of prominent Hungarians visiting the principal cities of America, also tributed Jeremiah Smith, a Boston banker, who was sent to Hungary to assist in stabilizing that country's currency.

A good many things come to the man who is so busy that he has a time to wait.

When your banker says he'll look it over, you may as well go to someone else.

BLOATING SPELLS AND INDIGESTION PAINS ALL ENDED

Konjola Banished Her Stomach Trouble and Energized Her Entire System

MRS. FANNIE A. BAKER

Those who have tried Konjola do not compare it with ordinary tonics. They say it is a real system-builder and that it brings new feelings of health over the entire system. For instance, Mrs. Fannie A. Baker, 26 West Central Ave., Dayton, Ohio, made the following statement about Konjola:

"Yes, I am glad to indorse Konjola because I think it is the best medicine that ever entered my home," said Mrs. Baker. "It completely ended the stomach trouble I had been suffering for 20 years. Nearly every meal I ate caused bloating spells and indigestion pains and terrific headaches came over me every night. I was always very nervous and could not get the proper sleep.

"As soon as I started taking Konjola a new feeling of life seemed to come over me. Within a few weeks all my troubles were gone. Now I can eat anything I want. The headaches have disappeared and my nerves are much stronger. I sleep well at night and get up in the morning feeling like my whole system has been energized."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Schupp & Sams Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

AMERICA is now a two-car country

TODAY the American family is discovering that a second or third car is not only a convenience but an economy.

The schedule of the modern mother and her children is filled full. Days are rich in opportunity. In removing the barriers of distance, in enlarging the area of social contacts, in making it easy to meet the manifold engagements of the busy days, the family car does duty fully as important as the car which drives off in the morning to the office or the shop.

There are two ways to enjoy two-car ownership. Either buy a used car from a General Motors dealer or keep your present car, instead of trading it in, when you buy your new General Motors car.

Whichever plan you follow, you will be sure of satisfaction if you buy from a dealer handling Cadillac, LaSalle, Buick, Oakland, Oldsmobile, Pontiac or Chevrolet. These are General Motors dealers, selected for character, stability and service. Buy from them with confidence; and simplify your purchase if you choose, through the convenient payments of the GMAC Plan.
